The Germanic Realms in Pre-Carolingian Central Europe, 400-750 Herbert Schutz,2000 The Germanic Realms in Pre Carolingian Central Europe 400 750 complements the scant historical and ethnographic information left by the classical authors about the peoples of the migration period in Central Europe with extensive archeological evidence This allows additional conclusions about what the people valued what their sense of style was how they felt about one another where and how they lived and from what they suffered and died We can even deduce something of their beliefs By examining their settlement patterns funerary practices material cultures myths of origin and their Christianization this book presents a complementary picture of their individual characteristics It is the intention of this book to make available for English readers a clearer cultural profile of the emergent populations in early medieval Central Europe   Eurasian Empires in Antiquity and the Early Middle Ages Hyun Jin Kim,Frederik Juliaan Vervaet,Selim Ferruh Adali,2017-10-05 The great empires of the vast Eurasian continent have captured the imagination of many Awe inspiring names such as ancient Rome Han and Tang China Persia Assyria the Huns the Kushans and the Franks have been the subject of countless scholarly books and works of literature However very rarely if at all have these vast pre industrial empires been studied holistically from a comparative interdisciplinary and above all Eurasian perspective This collection of studies examines the history literature and archaeology of these empires and others thus far treated separately as a single inter connected subject of inquiry It highlights in particular the critical role of Inner Asian empires and peoples in facilitating contacts and exchange across the Eurasian continent in antiquity and the early Middle Ages   Germanic Realms in Pre-Carolingian Central Europe, 400-750 ,   Tools, Weapons and Ornaments Herbert Schutz,2001 The book examines the link between history and archeology derived from funerary and settlement materials in early Medieval Central Europe The evidence demonstrates that the populations located to the north of the Roman frontiers were culturally aware societies with socio political structures   A Cumulative Bibliography of Medieval Military History and Technology, Update 2003-2006 Kelly DeVries,2008-01-31 This is the second update of A Cumulative Bibliography of Medieval Military History and Technology which appeared in 2002 It is meant to do two things to present references to works on medieval military history and technology not included in the first two volumes and to present references to all books and articles published on medieval military history and technology from 2003 to 2006 These references are divided into the same categories as in the first two volumes and cover a chronological period of the same length from late antiquity to 1648 again in order to present a more complete picture of influences on and from the Middle Ages It also continues to cover the same geographical area as the first and second volume in essence Europe and the Middle East or again influences on and from this area The languages of these bibliographical references reflect this geography   The Huns Hyun Jin Kim,2015-11-19 This volume is a concise introduction to the history and culture of the Huns This ancient people had a famous reputation in Eurasian Late Antiquity However their history has often been evaluated

as a footnote in the histories of the later Roman Empire and early Germanic peoples Kim addresses this imbalance and challenges the commonly held assumption that the Huns were a savage people who contributed little to world history examining striking geopolitical changes brought about by the Hunnic expansion over much of continental Eurasia and revealing the Huns contribution to European Iranian Chinese and Indian civilization and statecraft By examining Hunnic culture as a Eurasian whole The Huns provides a full picture of their society which demonstrates that this was a complex group with a wide variety of ethnic and linguistic identities Making available critical information from both primary and secondary sources regarding the Huns Inner Asian origins which would otherwise be largely unavailable to most English speaking students and Classical scholars this is a crucial tool for those interested in the study of Eurasian Late Antiquity

  Tools, Weapons and Ornaments Herbert Schutz,2021-10-11 This illustrated book continues themes in Central European cultural history treated elsewhere with the intention of presenting an interdisciplinary study of early medieval socio cultural developments A continuation of the preceding books this volume examines the archeological evidence of the groups who settled Central Europe It aims to amplify the information recorded during the late Roman Empire about societies social dynamics and ethnological contexts by examining their material culture The language of significant objects complements the literature of significant texts The three parts of the book inform of the historical and archeological evidence elaborate the socio cultural conclusions provided by archeology examine the system of values as reflected in the forms of artistic expression The study of objects helps clarify the contours of the Germanic populations of pre Carolingian Central Europe
