REVIEW The Book of the Animals is a planned series of illustrated books for young children. These delightful books tell the story of what happens when the animals in the stories like many young children don't want to eat and don't want to wash. The books are very suitable both for reading to young children and for older children to use to learn to read in both languages. They might even persuade them to wash and eat their dinner. The repetitive structure is supportive of children learning new words and the illustrations work well alongside the text to help understanding of unfamiliar words. I can easily imagine young children demanding repeat readings and enjoying learning the text by heart as many children do with favourite stories. Children learning to make up and write their own stories might well want to write a personalised version using the structure as a prop. I think the stories would work well both in the home and in the classroom.

Scaffolding Language Development in Immersion and Dual Language Classrooms Diane J. Tedick, Roy Lyster, 2019-11-28. This book introduces research-based pedagogical practices for supporting and enhancing language development and use in school-based immersion and dual language programs in which a second foreign heritage or indigenous language is used as the medium of subject matter instruction. Using counterbalanced instruction as the volume's pedagogical framework, the authors map out the specific pedagogical skill set and knowledge base that teachers in immersion and dual language classrooms need so their students can engage with content taught through an additional language while continuing to improve their proficiency in that language. To illustrate key concepts and effective practices, the authors draw on classroom-based research and include teacher-created examples of classroom application. The following topics are covered in detail: defining characteristics of immersion and dual language programs and features of well implemented programs strategies to promote language and content integration in curricular planning as well as classroom instruction and performance assessment an instructional model to counterbalance form focused and content based instruction scaffolding strategies that support students comprehension and production while ensuring continued language development an approach to creating cross linguistic connections through biliteracy instruction a self assessment tool for teachers to reflect on their pedagogical growth Also applicable to content and language integrated learning and other forms of content based language teaching this comprehensive volume includes graphics to facilitate navigation and provides Resources for Readers and Application Activities at the end of each chapter The book will be a key resource for preservice and in service teachers administrators and teacher educators

Gender Acquisition in Spanish Jessica Diebowski, 2021-04-06 The comparative investigation of the acquisition of gender in Spanish by early and late bilinguals of different language combinations is highly debated and crucial as the phenomenon of gender involves grammatical features that differ in all three languages under investigation Against this background both early and late bilinguals face an arduous learning task which differs in complexity Couched within a generative framework the empirical study focuses on 257 participants with different levels of proficiency in Spanish ranging from low to advanced and through a series of tests aims to discover which extra linguistic and intra linguistic factors act as triggers for non native outcomes in adult heritage speakers and L2 learners The observed morphological variability is argued not to stem from a representational i e syntactic deficit but rather from a mapping problem in L2 learners and heritage speakers Successful attainment in terms of gender is possible but dependent on the interplay between various extralinguistic and linguistic factors
