financial system remains in a transitional period with stability conditions far from normal. Advanced and emerging market economies alike need to make a successful shift from liquidity to growth driven markets which will require a number of elements including a normalization of U S monetary policy, financial rebalancing in emerging markets, further progress in the euro area integration and continued implementation of Abenomics in Japan. This report also examines how changes in the investor base and financial deepening affect emerging market economies as well as looks at the issue of banks considered too important to fail, providing new estimates of the implicit funding subsidy these banks receive.

Kolodko et al examine the fundamental issues of the influences of globalization on the markets for capital goods and labour and for the growth and development in emerging markets including post communist countries. The study includes a number of comprehensive and compatible works which deal especially with the chances for and mechanism of catching up on these emerging markets.

Industrial Development Global Report 1997 United Nations Industrial Development Organization, 1997. The UNIDO Industrial Development Global Report provides annual description and analysis of industrial development on both a global and a regional scale. Non-State Actors and Authority in the Global System Andreas Bieler, Richard Higgott, Geoffrey Underhill, 2004-01-14. Traditionally in International Relations power and authority were considered to rest with states. But recently in the light of changes associated with globalisation this has come under scrutiny both empirically and theoretically. This book analyses the continuing but changing role of states in the international arena and their relationships with a wide range of non state actors which possess increasingly salient capabilities to structure global politics and economics.

The World Economy and Great Post-communist Change Grzegorz W. Kolodko, 2006. An answer for the economist is a question for a policy maker. Most economists are confronted daily with the practical question of how the world is organised and how the global economy performs. When economists conclude they can grasp certain aspects scientifically they offer an answer which becomes in turn a question to the policy makers keen on changing the world for the better. The unique approach presented in the book is the combination of the theoretical considerations with the policy viewpoint analysis due to the author's own experience with policy making as deputy premier and finance minister of Poland twice and very successful as an architect of Polish reforms.

Another important feature is a vast yet comprehensive and deep discussion of the interactions between technology change and society and the economy both in the world economy and in emerging markets especially the post communist ones Of great importance for sustained development are the institutions They are not only created and built but also need to be learnt Not only theoretical arguments but also the practical experience demonstrates that faster economic growth is attained by those countries which take greater care to foster the institutional reinforcement of market economy and civic society Yet progress in market economy institution building is not in itself sufficient to ensure durable and fast growth Another indispensable component is an appropriately designed and implemented economic policy which must not confuse the means with the aims
