The Kiss and the Ghost, 2019-02-11 Sylvia Ashton Warner novelist and educationist was extraordinarily famous in the 1960s She maintained that young children best learn to read and write when they produce their own vocabulary especially sex words like kiss and fear words like ghost Educators lauded her Her autobiographical novels about teaching in remote schools and being culturally abandoned in a remote country New Zealand attained enormous international popularity in both literary and educational circles But she had an intensely ambivalent relationship with the land of her birth Despite receiving many accolades in New Zealand she claimed to have been rejected and persecuted by her homeland In her darkest moments she railed against New Zealand and New Zealanders even stating in one television interview I'm not a New Zealander This is the first book to make Sylvia Ashton Warner's passionately difficult relationship with New Zealand its central focus Its contributors argue that rather than stultifying her the country she decried produced Sylvia and her work In addition infant schooling in New Zealand in the post war years was relatively radical and progressive and education officials seemed to welcome Sylvia's ideas about literacy The edited collection includes chapters by Maori teachers and others who worked with Sylvia as well as recollections of her son Elliot Henderson It reprints her Teaching Scheme that was originally published in New Zealand in the 1950s And it celebrates her novels as brilliant and angry evocations of life in the wildness of New Zealand Cambridge Checkpoint English Coursebook 9 Marian Cox, 2014-05-22

Literature traces the genealogy of New Zealand literature from its first imaginings by Europeans in the eighteenth century. Beginning with a comprehensive introduction that charts the growth of and challenges to a nationalist literary tradition, the essays in this History illuminate the cultural and political intricacies of New Zealand literature, surveying the multilayered verse, fiction, and drama of such diverse writers as Katherine Mansfield, Allen Curnow, Frank Sargeson, Janet Frame, Keri Hulme, Witi Ihimaera, and Patricia Grace. Written by a host of leading scholars, this History devotes special attention to the lasting significance of colonialism, biculturalism, and multiculturalism in New Zealand literature. A History of New Zealand Literature is of pivotal importance to the development of New Zealand writing and will serve as an invaluable reference for specialists and students alike. Encyclopedia of Post-Colonial Literatures in English Eugene Benson, L.W.

Conolly, 2004-11-30 Post Colonial Literatures in English, together with English Literature and American Literature, form one of the three major groupings of literature in English and as such are widely studied around the world. Their significance derives from the richness and variety of experience which they reflect. In three volumes, this Encyclopedia documents the history and development of this body of work and includes original research relating to the literatures of some 50 countries and territories. In more than 1,600 entries written by more than 600 internationally recognized scholars, it explores the effect of the colonial and post colonial experience on literatures in English worldwide. Becoming Aotearoa Michael Belgrave, 2024-10-10 In the first major national history of Aotearoa New Zealand to be published for 20 years, Professor Michael Belgrave advances the notion that New Zealand's two peoples, tangata whenua and subsequent migrants, have together built an open liberal society based on a series of social contracts. Frayed though they may sometimes be, these contracts have created a country that is distinct. This engaging new look at our history examines how The Auckland University Press Anthology of New Zealand Literature Jane Stafford, Mark Williams, 2013-11-01 From the earliest records of exploration and encounter to the globalized multicultural present, this compilation features New Zealand's major writing, from Polynesian mythology to the Yates Garden Guide, from Allen Curnow to Alice Tawhai, and from Wiremu Te Rangikaheke's letters to Katherine Mansfield's notebooks. Including fiction, nonfiction, letters, speeches, novels, stories, comics, and songs, this imaginative selection provides new paths into New Zealand writing and culture.
