Mark W. Scarlata,2013-05-14 In a wide ranging meditation on the Cain and Abel narrative Mark Scarlata draws out theological motifs relevant to Christian discipleship in a modern Western context Taking his cue from Augustine s City of God Scarlata brings to light what it means for a Christian to be a citizen of the heavenly city in this midst of a twenty first century globalized society He argues that Christians can no longer think of discipleship merely as a personal individual undertaking but must recognize their role and responsibility as citizens in a global community Each chapter raises questions like How do we offer our best in worship when we live in a world driven by consumerism How can we love others through our participation in the global economy Are our lifestyles treating the environment in a way that is pleasing to God And how do we authentically connect to each other in a digital age of social media and mobile technology These and other issues are addressed in relation to scenes from the Cain and Abel story Each discussion highlights ancient Jewish and Christian interpretation as well as how a particular topic is understood within the broader context of the Old and New Testaments Scarlata then offers ways that Christians might respond to the cultural shifts experienced by this generation and encourages readers to rethink what it means to be a citizen of God s kingdom with a local and global awareness in every aspect of life
