Dr. Becky Rector MDiv, 2017-09-11 Many people have asked themselves What is my hearts desire This question can be confusing Perhaps you arrived at a point when you felt confident in what your hearts desire looked like You may have even started making the choice to go after it whatever it is only to have something get in your way maybe more than once This barrier that always seems to pop up may have manifested as fear either your own or that of a loved one that pulled you away from your decision This fear of the unknown may have forced you to stay in your current situation No matter how this barrier manifested it seemed to get in your way every time Now some people may believe this interference is a sign from the utmost Or perhaps they believe that by staying in their current situation they will find a new happiness that will lead to contentment So which is the true hearts desire The answer is simple

It's the one that when you see yourself obtaining it gives you the most joy and happiness. It's the one that makes your heart race.

The Gardened Soul David White, 2025-07-29 Gardens have always been places where people sought meaning. From Eden to Gethsemane, from Versailles to Kew, from Powerscourt to Altamont, something of these places resonated with people's souls as they yearned to connect to more. Styles of gardens have changed down the millennia as have the lifestyles of those who created and gardened them, but what has remained constant has been the human desire for wholeness, holiness, and connection. As much as we have created and cultivated gardens, they have had their effects on us. In other words, our souls have been gardened. This book addresses how a receptive engagement with gardening as a spiritual practice can allow for the emergence of a sacred environment where emotions can lead the soul deeper into the experience of more, particularly into the development of other embodied spiritual practices. The two specific emotions examined are love and sadness, which are explored as they grow into the embodied practices of gratitude and everyday joy, respectively. The emotional experiences in the garden incite wonder, excitement, and connection, nurturing the soul and lead onward towards discerning what embodied spiritual practices may be needed for the journey ahead. Our souls are gardened.
