Community Forestry in Nepal Richard Thwaites, Robert Fisher, Mohan Poudel, 2017-12-11

Community forestry focuses on the link between forest resources and livelihoods and contributes to forest conservation and reforestation It is widespread in Nepal with a very high proportion of the rural population involved and is widely recognized as one of the most successful examples of community forestry in Asia Through a combination of literature reviews and original research this volume explores key experiences and outcomes of community forestry in Nepal over the last four decades as a model for improving forest management and supporting local livelihoods The book takes a critical approach recognizing successes especially in forest conservation and restoration along with mixed outcomes in terms of poverty reduction and benefits to forest users It recognizes the way that community forestry has continued to evolve to meet new challenges including the global challenges of climate change environmental degradation and conservation as well as national demographic and social changes due to large scale labour migration and the growing remittance economy In addition to examining the changes and responses the book explores ways that community forestry in Nepal might move forward Lessons from Nepal have relevance to community forestry and community based approaches to natural resource management around the world that are also experiencing global pressures and opportunities RURAL DEVELOPMENT : COMMUNITY FOREST MANAGEMENT AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT Dr. Nukavarapu Nageswara Rao, 2024-03-29 The forest is a significant natural resource that nature has provided to humankind The protection and development of forest resources affects the global environment as well as a nation s population and economy Development of forests involves the extension of the resource base whereas conservation of forests implies the preservation and control of the resource In the light of their long standing cohabitation the preservation and development of forest resources are closely linked to the means of subsistence of local inhabitants It is obvious that any endeavour to conserve and develop forest resources cannot be seen in isolation without taking the local inhabitants concerns about their means of subsistence into account
