Individuals and Society in

Mycenaean Pylos Dimitri Nakassis, 2013-05-02 This book revises our understanding of Mycenaean society through a detailed analysis of individuals attested in the administrative texts from the Palace of Nestor at Pylos in southwestern Greece ca 1200 BC It argues that conventional models of Mycenaean society which focus on administrative titles and terms can be improved through the study of named individuals A new methodologically innovative prosopography demonstrates that many named individuals were not only important managers of palatial affairs but also high ranking members of the community This work significantly broadens the elite class and suggests that the palace was less of an agent in its own right than an institutional framework for interactions amongst individuals and social groups

Household and Family Religion in Antiquity John Bodel, Saul M. Olyan, 2012-02-15 The first book to explore the religious dimensions of the family and the household in ancient Mediterranean and West Asian antiquity Advances our understanding of household and familial religion as opposed to state sponsored or civic temple cults Reconstructs domestic and family religious practices in Egypt Greece Rome Israel Mesopotamia Ugarit Emar and Philistia Explores many household rituals such as providing for ancestral spirits and petitioning of a household's patron deities or of spirits associated with the house itself Examines lifecycle rituals from pregnancy and birth to maturity old age death and beyond Looks at religious practices relating to the household both within the home itself and other spaces such as at extramural tombs and local sanctuaries

Environment and Society in Byzantium, 650-1150 Alexander Olson, 2020-11-16 This book illuminates Byzantium's relationship with woodland between the seventh and twelfth centuries Using the oak and the olive as objects of study this work explores shifting economic strategies environmental change and the transformation of material culture throughout the middle Byzantine period Drawing from texts environmental data and archaeological surveys this book demonstrates that woodland s makeup was altered after Byzantium s seventh century metamorphosis and that people interacted in new ways with this re worked ecology Oak obtained prominence after late antiquity illustrating the shift from that earlier era s intensive agriculture to a more sylvan middle Byzantine economy Meanwhile the olive faded into the background re emerging in the eleventh and twelfth centuries thanks to the initiative of people adapting yet again to newly changed political and economic circumstances This book therefore shows that Byzantines relationship with their ecology was far from static and that Byzantines decisions had environmental impacts
