The Architecture of Light Mary Ann Steane, 2012-11-12 Reviewing the use of natural light by architects in the era of electricity this book aims to show that natural light not only remains a potential source of order in architecture but that natural lighting strategies impose a usefully creative discipline on design Considering an approach to environmental context that sees light as a critical aspect of place this book explores current attitudes to natural light by offering a series of in depth studies of recent projects and the particular lighting issues they have addressed It gives a more nuanced appraisal of these lighting strategies by setting them within their broader topographic climatic and cultural contexts

Art, Science, and the Natural World in the Ancient Mediterranean, 300 BC to AD 100 Joshua J. Thomas, 2021-12-22 The Hellenistic Period witnessed striking new developments in art literature and science This volume addresses a particularly vibrant area of innovation the study of animals and the natural world While Aristotle and his followers had revolutionized fields such as zoology and botany during the fourth century BC these disciplines took on exciting new directions during Hellenistic times Kings imported exotic species into their royal capitals from faraway lands Travel writers described unusual creatures that they had never previously encountered And buyers from a range of social levels chose works of art featuring animals and plants to decorate their palaces houses and tombs While textual sources shed some light on these developments the central premise of Art Science and the Natural World in the Ancient Mediterranean is that our surviving artistic evidence permits a fuller understanding Accordingly the study brings together a rich body of visual material that invites new observations on how and why knowledge of the natural world became so important during this period It is suggested that this cultural phenomenon affected many different groups in society from kings in Alexandria and Pergamon to provincial aristocrats in the Levant and from the Julio Claudian imperial family to prosperous homeowners in Pompeii By analysing the works of art produced for these individuals a vivid picture emerges of this remarkable aspect of ancient culture

Inventing the Garden Matteo Vercelloni, Virgilio Vercelloni, Paola Gallo, 2010 The authors trace the evolution of the Western garden from the first plots cultivated for pleasure in the Middle East to today's diverse green spaces that challenge traditional ideas about what constitutes a garden They examine the changing attitude toward nature as something to be dominated or embraced ordered or allowed to range freely exploited or conserved Examples of the highly prescribed hortus conclusus or enclosed spaces of the Middle Ages are found in the Italian Renaissance gardens and the symmetries of Versailles and Les Tuileries After the rise of Romanticism in the late eighteenth century English gardeners such as William Kent and Capability Brown embraced the concept that nature should prevail over man's manipulation of it and created gardens that broke through traditional enclosures A century later while the American West witnessed both the conquering spirit of the homesteaders and the first stirrings of the conservation movement urban parks and gardens were created as oases to which all people had access The book concludes with a look at contemporary gardens where efforts to reclaim landscapes and repurpose crumbling infrastructure are taking place within an atmosphere of ecological sensitivity appreciating the idea that the whole planet is a garden and all who live in it are gardeners
