The Geography of Poverty in the United States Richard L. Morrill, Ernest H. Wohlenberg, 1972 America's Poorest and Most Affluent Counties, 1980 to 2010 Wendy Shaw, 2021-08-28 This book explores the changing spatial distribution of the United States of America's poorest and most affluent counties over the 30 years from 1980 to 2010. While overall rates of poverty have changed somewhat during this period, the geography of counties where affluence and poverty rates are the highest have also shifted as economic fortunes wax and wane. The spatial understanding of poverty and affluence is an important dimension of addressing the complex economic and social contexts within which poverty occurs and which vary substantially depending on several factors. While there has been significant focus on poverty in the United States including some analysis of its spatial characteristics since the 1960s, there has been relatively little research on the concomitant geography of affluence. The geographies of poverty and affluence analyzed in this book give a view of spatial economic segregation. Spatial aspects of both the poorest and most affluent counties are focused on, as well as the changing gap and relative geographies between rich and poor over three decades.

These include printed books and journal articles, maps, satellite photographs, archives, statistical information, and much else. One particular problem facing geographers is that when one studies a foreign country, information may be available only in the foreign country and difficult to obtain. This book discusses the information sources available to geographers.

The Companion has five sections that carry the reader from foundational considerations to integrative trends, to resources use and accommodation, to examples highlighting non-traditional pathways, to a postscript about cooperation of the industrialized Earth and a prognosis of the road ahead for the new geographies of sustainability.

Rationalizing Rural Area Classifications for the Economic Research Service National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Committee on National Statistics,2016-01-05 The U S Department of Agriculture Economic Research Service USDA ERS maintains four highly related but distinct geographic classification systems to designate areas by the degree to which they are rural The original urban rural code scheme was developed by the ERS in the 1970s Rural America today is very different from the rural

America of 1970 described in the first rural classification report At that time migration to cities and poverty among the people left behind was a central concern The more rural a residence the more likely a person was to live in poverty and this relationship held true regardless of age or race Since the 1970s the interstate highway system was completed and broadband was developed Services have become more consolidated into larger centers Some of the traditional rural industries farming and mining have prospered and there has been rural amenity based in migration Many major structural and economic changes have occurred during this period These factors have resulted in a quite different rural economy and society since 1970 In April 2015 the Committee on National Statistics convened a workshop to explore the data estimation and policy issues for rationalizing the multiple classifications of rural areas currently in use by the Economic Research Service ERS Participants aimed to help ERS make decisions regarding the generation of a county rural urban scale for public use taking into consideration the changed social and economic environment This report summarizes the presentations and discussions from the workshop
