Empires of the Sky Alexander Rose,2021-05-25 The Golden Age of Aviation is brought to life in this story of the giant Zeppelin airships that once roamed the sky a story that ended with the fiery destruction of the Hindenburg Genius a definitive tale of an incredible time when mere mortals learned to fly Keith O'Brien The New York Times At the dawn of the twentieth century when human flight was still considered an impossibility Germany's Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin vied with the Wright Brothers to build the world's first successful flying machine As the Wrights labored to invent the airplane Zeppelin fathered the remarkable airship sparking a bitter rivalry between the two types of aircraft and their innovators that would last for decades in the quest to control one of humanity's most inspiring achievements And it was the airship not the airplane that led the way In the glittery 1920s the count's brilliant protégé Hugo Eckener achieved undreamed of feats of daring and skill including the extraordinary Round the World voyage of the Graf Zeppelin At a time when America's airplanes rickety deathtraps held together by glue screws and luck could barely make it from New York to Washington D.C. Eckener's airships serenely traversed oceans without a single crash fatality or injury What Charles Lindbergh almost died doing crossing the Atlantic in 1927 Eckener had effortlessly accomplished three years before the Spirit of St. Louis even took off Even as the Nazis sought to exploit Zeppelins for their own nefarious purposes Eckener built his masterwork the behemoth Hindenburg a marvel of design and engineering Determined to forge an airline empire under the new flagship Eckener met his match in Juan Trippe the ruthlessly ambitious king of Pan American Airways who believed his fleet of next generation planes would vanquish Eckener's coming airship armada It was a fight only one man and one technology could win Countering each other's moves on the global chessboard each seeking to wrest the advantage from his rival the struggle for mastery of the air was a clash not only of technologies but of business diplomacy politics personalities and the two men's vastly different dreams of the future Empires of the Sky is the sweeping untold tale of the duel that transfixed the world and helped create our modern age the giant airships of the late 19th and early 20th century National Union Catalog ,1982 Flight of the Titan George Rosie,2012-12-10 In the early hours of Thursday July 10 1919 hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers rushed out onto the streets and rooftops and gaped up into the sky as a great silver ship hundreds of feet long rolled slowly across the city Restaurants hotels theatres and bars emptied as people took to the street to gaze upwards The ship seemed to hover over the New York Times building in 42nd street before turning its bow to the east and heading off towards the Atlantic New Yorkers had never seen anything like it They were left to wonder as the thrum of the engines died away But it was no alien visitation The huge silver craft bearing a lion rampant across its bow was the Scottish built airship R34 manned by a 30 strong crew of World War I veterans and a stowaway cat A few days earlier the R34 had made the first ever east west flight across the Atlantic against powerful head winds and electrical storms The flight of the R34 was one of the great feats of British aviation and it has been shamefully forgotten but there is a wealth of information out there Some of it is in the diary kept by General Edward Maitland which was later published other material comes from the flight reports of the airship s officers crew diaries press interviews and technical information buried in the National Archives in Kew and in the records of the royal Aeronautical Society and the New York Times Weaving all of this together George Rosie paints a vivid picture of the great feats of early 19th Century aviation and one of which Scotland should be immensely proud
