Return Migration to Afghanistan Marieke van Houte,2017-02-08 This book overcomes the dichotomies generalizations and empirical shortcomings that surround the understanding of return migration within the migration development peace building nexus Using the concept of multidimensional embeddedness it provides an encompassing view of returnees identification with and participation in one or multiple spaces of belonging It introduces Afghan return migration from Europe as a relevant case study since the country s protracted history of conflict and migration shows how the globally changing political discourses of recent decades have shaped migration strategies The author s findings highlight the fact that policy is responding inadequately to complex issues of migration conflict development and return since the expectations on which it is based only account for a small minority of returnees This thought provoking book will appeal to scholars of migration and refugee studies as well as a wider audience of sociologists anthropologists demographers and policy makers

Wake the Mirror Vincente Torboli,2023-06-02 Peer into the mirror and experience the weight of being doomed Stories and poems that exist to give insights on the dread that befalls us when our inevitable demise presents itself while also exploring some of mankind s more unfortunate flaws From the terrors that men do to one another to the unexplainable nightmares we conjure in our dreams to the horrors of the incomprehensible expanse we call home Through the mirror you will see what calamity awaits us all and what catastrophe we can bring unto ourselves Through these tales of doom remember that death is not the only thing waiting for us beyond the black

Characteristics of Temporary Migration in European-Asian Transnational Social Spaces Pirkko Pitkänen,Mari Korpela,Mustafa Aksakal,Kerstin Schmidt,2017-10-05 This book focuses on the experiences of temporary movements between Asia and Europe from the perspective of migrants and mobile people It raises important questions such as Why do people migrate on a temporary basis and what does this actually mean How are these trajectories shaped What are the implications of temporary moves for migrants and non migrants And how are transnational ties and practices characterized in the context of temporary migration By shedding light on the practices and experiences of individual migrants the book provides useful insights into understanding the challenges arising in an increasingly interconnected and mobile world The chapters indicate that temporary migratory movements are on the rise on the one hand on a voluntary basis such as reflected in labour migration lifestyle migration and international student mobility and on the other hand in an involuntary way as expressed in different forms of forced migration Either way temporary migration has diverse political legal economic social and cultural implications including the emergence of novel transnational networks and practices The book is based on the findings of the international research project Transnational Migration in Transition Transformative Characteristics of Temporary Mobility of People EURA NET funded by the European Union s 7th Framework Programme for period 2014 2017 edition of this book may not contain all of the images found in the physical edition      European Somalis' Post-Migration Movements Joëlle Moret, 2018-09-19 Based on a qualitative study on migrants of Somali origin who have settled in Europe for at least a decade this open access book offers a ground breaking exploration of the idea of mobility both empirically and theoretically It draws a comprehensive typology of the varied post migration mobility practices developed by these migrants from their country of residence after having settled there It argues that cross border mobility may under certain conditions become a form of capital that can be employed to pursue advantages in transnational social fields Anchored in rich empirical data the book constitutes an innovative and successful attempt at theoretically linking the emerging field of mobilities studies with studies of migration transnationalism and integration It emphasises how the ability to be mobile may become a significant marker of social differentiation alongside other social hierarchies The mobility capital accumulated by some migrants is the cornerstone of strategies intended to negotiate inconsistent social positions in transnational social fields challenging sedentarist and state centred visions of social inequality The migrants in the study are able to diversify the geographic and social fields in which they accumulate and circulate resources and to benefit from this circulation by reinvesting them where they can best be valorised The study sheds a different light on migrants who are often considered passive or problematic migrants refugees in Europe and demonstrates that mobility capital is not the prerogative of highly qualified elites less privileged migrants also circulate in a globalised world benefiting from being embedded in transnational social fields and from mobility practices over which they have gained some control      Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1991      Making European Muslims Mark Sedgwick, 2014-09-19 Making European Muslims provides an in depth examination of what it means to be a young Muslim in Europe today where the assumptions values and behavior of the family and those of the majority society do not always coincide Focusing on the religious socialization of Muslim children at home in semi private Islamic spaces such as mosques and Quran schools and in public schools the original contributions to this volume focus largely on countries in northern Europe with a special emphasis on the Nordic region primarily Denmark Case studies demonstrate the ways that family life public education and government policy intersect in the lives of young Muslims and inform their developing religious beliefs and practices Mark Sedgwick's introduction provides a framework for theorizing Muslimness in the European context arguing that Muslim children must navigate different and sometimes contradictory expectations and demands on their way to negotiating a European Muslim identity
