Thinking the Sculpture Garden Penny Florence, 2020-02-20 This innovative book poses two deceptively simple questions what is a sculpture garden and what happens when you give equal weight to the main elements of landscape planting and artwork Its wide ranging frame of reference including the USA Europe and Japan is brought into focus through Tremenhoe Sculpture Garden Cornwall with which the book begins and ends Effectively less than 15 years old and largely the work of one man Tremenhoe affords an opportunity to examine as work in progress the creation of a new kind of sculpture garden Including a historical overview the book traverses multiple ways of seeing and experiencing sculpture gardens culminating in an exploration of their relevance as cultural ecology in the context of globalisation urbanisation and climate change The thinking here is non dualist and broadly aligned with New Materialisms and Material Feminisms to explore our place as humans in the non human world on which we depend Eminent contributors including John Dixon Hunt George Descombes Bernard Lassus and David Leatherbarrow approach these issues through practices and theories of landscape architecture garden and art making history and writing and philosophy Richly illustrated with over 100 images including a colour plate section the book will primarily appeal to those engaged in professional or academic research along with sculpture garden visitors who will find new and surprising ways of experiencing plants and art in natural and urban settings The Overland Monthly, 1873 Matisse Dorothy M. Kosinski, Jay McKean Fisher, Steven A. Nash, Ann Boulton, Henri Matisse, Oliver Shell, Baltimore Museum of Art, Nasher Sculpture Center, 2007-01-01 Contains photographs of sculptures created by Henri Matisse "French Sculpture Following the Franco-Prussian War, 1870?0 " Michael Dorsch, 2017-07-05 French Sculpture Following the Franco Prussian War 1870 80 investigates the role played by the trope of the strong woman fallen man in re establishing morale among the French people following the Franco Prussian War The study explores how certain French sculptors including Falgui Merci Barrias and Rodin presented this recent history of defeat in commemorative monuments that increasingly dominated public space across France during the final decades of the nineteenth century Though it focuses on French nationalism and the commemoration of war or as is the case with the French following the Franco Prussian War the commemoration of defeat this volume also examines shifts in gender roles in the latter half of the nineteenth century and the impact of military defeat on relations between the sexes The book probes the aesthetic discourse of the period concerning the merits of traditional allegorical sculpture versus new fangled realist sculpture in depicting modern life Drawing on extensive archival research Michael Dorsch gives a voice to the sculptures he discusses restoring these often ignored works to their proper place in history Transactions of the Illinois State Horticultural Society Illinois State Horticultural Society, 1911 Transactions of the Illinois State Horticultural Society for the Year ... Illinois State Horticultural Society, 1911 Shaping Our Selves Erik Parens, 2015 When bioethicists debate the ethics of using technologies like surgery and pharmacology to shape our selves they are debating what it means for human beings to flourish They are debating what makes animals like us truly happy and whether the technologies at issue will bring us closer to or farther from such happiness The positions that participants adopt in debates regarding such ancient and fundamental questions are often polarized and cannot help but be deeply personal It is no wonder that these debates are sometimes acrimonious How can critics of and enthusiasts about technological self transformation move forward in the midst of polarizing arguments Based on his experience as a scholar at The Hastings Center the oldest free standing bioethics research institute in the world Erik Parens proposes a habit of thinking which he calls Binocular thinking lets us benefit from the insights that are visible from the stance of the enthusiast who emphasizes that using technology to creatively transform our selves will make us happier and to benefit from the insights that are visible from the stance of the critic who emphasizes that learning to let ourselves be will make us happier Because these debates ultimately entail critics and enthusiasts giving justifications for their own ways of being in the world they entail the exchange of more than just impartial reasons In the throes of our passion to make our case we exaggerate our insights and all too often fall into the conceptual traps that our languages constantly set for us Are human beings by nature creators or creatures Are technologies morally neutral or value laden Is disability a medical or a social phenomenon Indeed are we free or determined Parens explains how participating in these debates helped him articulate a habit of thinking which is better at benefiting from the insights embedded in both poles of those binaries than was the habit of thinking he brought

Placing Aesthetics Robert E. Wood, 2000-03-15 Examining select high points in the speculative tradition from Plato and Aristotle through the Middle Ages and German tradition to Dewey and Heidegger Placing Aesthetics seeks to locate the aesthetic concern within the larger framework of each thinker's philosophy In Professor Robert Wood's study aesthetics is not peripheral but rather central to the speculative tradition and to human existence as such In Dewey's terms aesthetics is experience in its integrity Its personal ground is in the heart which is the dispositional ground formed by genetic cultural and personal historical factors by which we are spontaneously moved and in turn are inclined to move both practically and theoretically in certain directions Prepared for use by the student as well as the philosopher Placing Aesthetics aims to recover the fullness of humanness within a sense of the fullness of encompassing Being It attempts to overcome the splitting of thought even in philosophy into exclusive specializations and the fracturing of life itself into theoretical practical and emotive dimensions

Crucible Charles Emerson, 2019-10-15 The gripping story of the years that ended the Great War and launched Europe and America onto the roller coaster of the twentieth century Crucible is filled with all too human tales of exuberant dreams dark fears and the absurdities of chance In Petrograd a fire is lit The Tsar is packed off to Siberia A rancorous Russian exile returns to proclaim a workers revolution In America black soldiers who have served their country in Europe demand their rights at home An Austrian war veteran trained by the German army to give rousing speeches against the Bolshevik peril begins to rail against the Jews A solar eclipse turns a former patent clerk into a celebrity An American reporter living the high life in Paris searches out a new literary style Lenin and Hitler Josephine Baker and Ernest Hemingway Rosa Luxemburg and Mustafa Kemal these are some of the protagonists in this dramatic panorama of a world in turmoil Revolutions and civil wars erupt across Europe A red scare hits America Women win the vote Marching tunes are syncopated into jazz The real becomes surreal Encompassing both tragedy and humor the celebrated author of 1913 brings immediacy and intimacy to this moment of deep historical transformation that molded the world we would come to inherit
