Tales of a Traveller Geoffrey Crayon (Gent., pseud. [i.e. Washington Irving.]), 1825

Tales of a Traveller, by Geoffrey Crayon, Gent. Washington Irving, 2025-05-22

Tales of a Traveller by Washington Irving writing as Geoffrey Crayon Gent is a collection of short stories and essays that showcases Irving's signature blend of humor, sentimentality, and picturesque description. This first volume transports readers to various locales from the quaint villages of England to the bustling cities of Europe, offering glimpses into the lives and customs of the people encountered along the way. The stories range from lighthearted anecdotes to more reflective observations on human nature and the passage of time. Irving's elegant prose and keen eye for detail create a vivid tapestry of scenes and characters that capture the spirit of the early 19th century. Tales of a Traveller offers both entertainment and insightful commentary on the world, reflecting Irving's enduring appeal as one of America's first internationally acclaimed authors. This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it. This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible. Therefore, you will see the original copyright references, library stamps, as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world, and other notations in the work. This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations. Within the United States, you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work. As a reproduction of a historical artifact, this work may contain missing or blurred pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. Scholars believe, and we concur, that this work is important enough to be preserved, reproduced, and made generally available to the public.
