Stranger by the Creek Anthony Earl Wohlleb, 2011-03 As my eyes adjust seeing clearer than I ever have before I realize that I'm staring at my own sleeping body on the bed in front of me What is this I have not died I know this I can feel that there is still a connection to the old body I have left behind My only thought I have to get help I have to wake up Grandpa A week I was beginning my summer stay with Grandpa for a week our usual yearly routine This is the first night of my time over here and I thought I was having trouble falling asleep but apparently I was already sleeping and I didn't realize it As I run in a panic towards his closed door and reach for the doorknob I can't grab it My hand passes right through as if I were a ghost What am I I ask myself this and thinking about the doorknob I decide to hesitantly push my way through the door and suddenly I'm in his room I immediately run over to Grandpa and my hand passes through him in the same way Something happened I don't know what to call this but I'm obviously not me I cried Shortly afterward in the silence and in the middle of my fright a voice questions You feel helpless The golden outline of a man appears I have yet to realize that this man will change my life forever ANTHONY TROLLOPE Ultimate Collection: 100+ Novels & Short Stories; Articles, Memoirs & Essays Anthony Trollope, 2020-06-11 This meticulously edited Anthony Trollope collection is formatted for your eReader with a functional and detailed table of contents
