Five Emus to the King of Siam Helen Tiffin,2007 Western exploitation of other peoples is inseparable from attitudes and practices relating to other species and the extra human environment generally Colonial depredations turn on such terms as human savage civilised natural progressive and on the legitimacies governing apprehension and control of space and landscape Environmental impacts were reinforced in patterns of unequal exchange by the transport of animals plants and peoples throughout the European empires instigating widespread ecosystem change under unequal power regimes a harbinger of today's globalization This book considers these imperial exchanges and charts some contemporary legacies of those inequitable imports and exports transportations and transmutations Sheep farming in Australia transforming the land as it dispossessed the native inhabitants became a symbol of new white nationhood The transportation of plants and animals into and across the Pacific even where benign or nostalgic had widespread environmental effects despite the hopes of the acclimatisation societies involved and by extension of missionary societies planting the seeds of Christianity In the Caribbean plantation slavery pushed back the jungle itself an imported word and erased the indigenous occupants one example of the righteous biblically justified cultivation of the wilderness In Australia artistic depictions of landscape often driven by romantic and gothic aesthetics encoded contradictory settler mindsets and literary representations of colonial Kenya mask the erasure of ecosystems Chapters on the early twentieth century in Canada Kenya and Queensland indicate increased awareness of the value of species preservation conservation and disease control The tension between traditional and

Euroscientific attitudes towards conservation is revealed in attitudes towards control of the Ganges while the urge to resource exploitation has produced critical disequilibrium in Papua New Guinea Broader concerns centering on ecotourism and ecocriticism are treated in further essays summarising how the dominant West has alienated nature from human beings through commodification in the service of capitalist progress

A Sense of Place Michael Shapiro, 2009-05-01 In A Sense of Place journalist travel writer Michael Shapiro goes on a pilgrimage to visit the world's great travel writers on their home turf to get their views on their careers the writer's craft and most importantly why they chose to live where they do and what that place means to them The book chronicles a young writer's conversations with his heroes writers he's read for years who inspired him both to pack his bags to travel and to pick up a pen and write Michael skillfully coaxes a collective portrait through his interviews allowing the authors to speak intimately about the writer's life and how place influences their work and perceptions In each chapter Michael sets the scene by describing the writer's surroundings placing the reader squarely in the locale whether it be Simon Winchester's Massachusetts Redmond O Hanlon's London or Frances Mayes's Tuscany He then lets the writer speak about life and the world and through quiet probing draws out fascinating commentary from these remarkable people For Michael it's a dream come true to meet his mentors for readers it's an engaging window onto the twin landscapes of great travel writers and the world in which they live

Travelers' Tales India James O'Reilly, Larry Habegger, 2009-11-01 India is among the most difficult and most rewarding of places to travel Some have said India stands for I'll Never Do It Again Many more are drawn back time after time because India is the best show on earth the best bazaar of human experiences that can be visited in a lifetime India dissolves ideas about what it means to be alive and its people give new meaning to compassion perseverance ingenuity and friendship India monsoon and marigold dung and dust colors and corpses smoke and ash snow and endless myth is a cruel unrelenting place of ineffable sweetness Much like life itself Journey to the Kumbh Mela in Allahabad the world's biggest party with David Yeadon and take A Bath for Fifteen Million People greet the monsoon with
