Abuse of EU Law and Regulation of the Internal Market Alexandre Saydé, 2014-12-01 How can the concept of abuse of European Union law which can be defined as undesirable choice of law artificially made by a private citizen generate so much disagreement among equally intelligent individuals Seeking to transcend the classical debate between its supporters and adversaries the present study submits that the concept of abuse of EU law is located on three major fault lines of EU law which accounts for the well established controversies in the field The first fault line which is common to all legal orders opposes legal congruence the tendency to yield equitable legal outcomes to legal certainty the tendency to yield predictable legal outcomes Partisans of legal congruence tend to advocate the prohibition of abuses of law whereas partisans of legal certainty tend to oppose it The second fault line is specific to EU law and divides two conceptions of the regulation of the internal market If economic integration is conceived as the promotion of cross border competition among private businesses the paradigm of regulatory neutrality choices of law must be proscribed as abusive for they distort business competition But if economic integration is intended to promote competition among Member States the paradigm of regulatory competition choices of law by EU citizens represent a desirable process of arbitrage among national laws The third and final fault line corresponds to the tension between two orientations of the economic constitution of the European Union namely the fear of private power and the fear of public power Those who fear private power most tend to endorse the prohibition of abuses of law whereas those who fear public power most tend to reject it Seen in this way the concept of abuse of EU law offers a forum in which fundamental questions about the nature and function of EU law can be confronted and examined in a new light In May 2013 the thesis that this book was based on won the First Edition of the European Law Faculties Association Award for Outstanding Doctoral Thesis The Challenges of the Humanities, Past, Present, and Future Albrecht Classen, 2018-10-08 This book is a printed edition of the Special Issue The Challenges of the Humanities Past Present and Future Volume 1 that was published in Humanities Integral Human Development Jacquineau Azetsop, 2019-12-09 Pope Paul VI's notion of integral human development which was endorsed by his successors including Pope Francis broke with the modern project of purely economic and technological development resulting in an original understanding of development Like a conventional notion of development this theoretical construct favors economic growth technological innovation and the implementation of social programs However development is not just a socioeconomic and political issue let alone a technical one it raises fundamentally theological questions and points to important ethical challenges Hence integral human development is a vocation at which all personal social and political activity must be directed As such it is not a social but an anthropological program Far from being a secular development theory the notion of integral human development emphasizes the religious goal of reconciling humanity and God through the creation of a human family over and above material social and economic issues Sustained by global principle and shaped by different cultural views this book brings forth the uniqueness of this approach to development examines its contribution to human welfare and anticipates the resistances it may face

Hidden Multilingualism in 19th-Century European Literature Jana-Katharina Mende,2023-08-21 The disparagement of multilingualism is a European development of the 18th and 19th centuries in which one national language and national literature were advocated established and institutionalised Multilingual writers made use of the creative potential of several languages even then However they often adapted to an increasingly monolingual book market which made their individual multilingualism invisible This is evident in literary historiography which established a monolingual national canon Researching hidden multilingualism is often difficult since multilingual texts by multilingual writers were often not published or were published in a monolingual version sources are scarce Literary histories of the time often do not mention multilingualism Furthermore many multilingual writers were members of minority groups women Jewish Non European and thus often neglected The volume offers methods and theories to systematically approach this hidden material as well as case studies on authors and national literatures in a multilingual context It thus contributes to the restructuring of a multilingual transnational literary history that is applicable to different philologies
