

A surreal, artistic image featuring a person standing in the center of a city street. The person is silhouetted against a bright, glowing light source that creates a lens flare effect. Overlaid on the scene is a large, semi-transparent clock face with Roman numerals. The clock face is positioned such that the person appears to be standing within it. The background shows a city street with buildings and a bridge in the distance. The overall color palette is dominated by warm, golden-yellow and orange tones, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The image has a dreamlike, apocalyptic quality.

From Darkness To Light Igal Halfin,2000-07-15 In conjunction with Studies of the Harriman InstituteIn this interdisciplinary and controversial work Igal Halfin looks at Marxist theory in a new light attempting to break down the divisions between history philosophy and literary theory His approach is methodological combining intellectual and social history to argue that if we are to take the Bolshevik revolutionary experiment seriously we have to examine carefully the ideological presupposition of both communist ideological texts and the archival documents that social historians believe truly reflect lived experience in order to see what effects these texts had on reality Igal Halfin aims to turn Marxism class and consciousness from subjects of analysis to its objects From Darkness to Light begins by examining the Marxist philosophy of history as understood by the Russian revolutionary movement Halfin argues that the Soviet government took its cues to how it could bring about a classless society from a peculiar blending of eschatological thinking and modern techniques of power Halfin then offers a case study of the Bolshevik attempt in the 1920s to create the Communist New Man by amalgamating the characteristics of the intellectual and the worker in order to eradicate the petit bourgeois traits attributed by the regime to the pre revolutionary individualistic and decadent student Halfin s conclusions raise important questions about Marxist theory as it relates to class historical progress and communism itself His approach suggests that proletarianization should be understood not as a change in the social composition of the student body but as the introduction of the language of class into the universities Through the examination of the process of the literary construction of class identity Halfin concludes that the student class affiliation in the Soviet Union of the 1920s was not simply a matter of social origins but of students ability using a set of ritualized procedures to defend their claims to a working class identity Halfin s conclusions raise important questions about Marxist theory as it relates to class historical progress and communism itself

The Prophetic Character and Inspiration of the Apocalypse Considered. By George Pearson. [With the Text.], 1835

Apocalyptic Ecology in the Graphic Novel Clint Jones, 2020-03-16 As awareness of climate change grows so do the number of cultural depictions of environmental disaster Graphic novels have reliably produced dramatizations of such disasters Many use themes of dystopian hopefulness or the enjoyment readers experience from seeing society prevail in times of apocalypse This book argues that these generally inspirational narratives contribute to a societal apathy for real life environmental degradation By examining the narratives and art of the environmental apocalypse in contemporary graphic novels the author stands against dystopian hope arguing that the ways in which we experience depictions of apocalypse shape how we respond to real crises

The Christological Assimilation of the Apocalypse Paul O'Callaghan, 2004 Biblical apocalyptic texts that make imminent predictions of the end of the world as we know it have fascinated Christians from the earliest times Understandably over the centuries such texts have been interpreted in a variety of different even opposing ways This is particularly so in twentieth century biblical exegesis Many authors would hold that apocalyptic texts far from truly predicting the end of time final resurrection universal judgement and perpetual separation of just and wicked are to be seen as merely existential or performative expressions of the sinner's radical dependence on a Sovereign Divinity Any kind of literal interpretation of apocalyptic predictions therefore would seem to involve insoluble problems of a scientific ethical and social kind that modern society cannot envisage In this extensive biblical study Prof O Callaghan considers in detail not only the eschatology present in apocalyptic works in general and the complex debate on New Testament eschatology that flourished throughout the last century He has also shown that the powerful apocalyptic message present in the New Testament is essentially an application and direct consequence of Jesus Christ's saving work among humans Principally on the basis of a narrative analysis of Matthew's Christology apocalyptic motifs abound in the first gospel he shows that New Testament apocalyptic as it stands while radical challenging and theologically stimulating is neither irrational nor ethically untenable And this for the simple reason that the Judge who will come at the end of time to save the just and condemn sinners is one and the same Jesus of Nazareth who has already offered the gift of salvation to the whole of humankind

Apocalyptic Sentimentalism Kevin Pelletier, 2015-01-15 In contrast to the prevailing scholarly consensus that understands sentimentality to be grounded on a logic of love and sympathy Apocalyptic Sentimentalism demonstrates that in order for sentimentality to work as an antislavery engine it needed to be linked to its seeming opposite fear especially the fear of God's wrath Most antislavery reformers recognized that calls for love and sympathy or the representation of suffering slaves would not lead an audience to feel right or to actively oppose slavery The threat of God's apocalyptic vengeance and the terror that this threat inspired functioned within the tradition of abolitionist sentimentality as a necessary goad for sympathy and love Fear then was at the center of nineteenth century sentimental strategies for inciting antislavery reform bolstering love when love faltered and operating as a powerful mechanism for establishing interracial sympathy Depictions of God's apocalyptic vengeance constituted the most efficient strategy for antislavery writers to generate a sense of terror in their audience Focusing on a range of important antislavery figures including David Walker Nat Turner Maria Stewart Harriet Beecher Stowe and John Brown Apocalyptic Sentimentalism illustrates how antislavery discourse worked to redefine violence and vengeance as the ultimate expression rather than denial of love and sympathy At the same time these warnings of apocalyptic retribution enabled antislavery writers to express albeit indirectly fantasies of brutal violence against slaveholders What began as a sentimental strategy quickly became an incendiary gesture with antislavery reformers envisioning the complete annihilation of slaveholders and defenders of slavery      The Great Preparation; Or, Redemption Draweth Nigh ... John Cumming, 1865      Modernity, Metatheory, and the Temporal-Spatial Divide Michael Kimaid, 2015-03-27 This book is about how modernity affects our perceptions of time and space Its main argument is that geographical space is used to control temporal progress by channeling it to benefit particular political economic and social interests or by halting it altogether By incorporating the ancient Greek myth of the Titanomachy as a conceptual metaphor to explore the elemental ideas of time and space the author argues that hegemonic interests have developed spatial hierarchy into a comprehensive system of technocratic monoculture which interrupts temporal development in order to maintain exclusive power and authority This spatial stasis is reinforced through the control of historical narratives and geographical settings While increasingly comprehensive the author argues that this state of affairs can best be challenged by focusing on the development of unmappable places which presently exist within the socio spatial matrix of the modern world      *Essays and Correspondence, Chiefly on Scriptural Subjects ...
