Zimbabwe's Political and Economic Crisis United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations. Subcommittee on African Affairs, 2001      Press Freedom and Communication in Africa Festus Eribo, William Jong-Ebot, 1997

Recent years have seen considerable growth in the media in Africa with increases in the number of newspapers and radio and television stations At the same time there has been an increase in the number of arrests of journalists and broadcasters and various forms of censorship have been introduced The essays in this volume examine press censorship past and present and bring a fresh perspective to the position of the mass media in the African continent      Country Reports on Human Rights Practices ,1980      Mass Media and Democratisation in Cameroon in the Early 1990s Francis B. Nyamnjoh, 2011

In the on going democratic debate the Cameroonian media have not played the role of objective mediators A one party logic of which government opposition and the public are guilty has prevented Cameroonian multipartyism from addressing the major issue that of how best to bring about real participatory democracy So far democracy has served mainly as a face powder an empty concept or slogan devoid of concrete meaning used to justify reactionary propaganda by the ruling party and its acolytes on the one hand and revolutionary propaganda by the opposition and some pressure groups on the other This polarisation in the Cameroonian political arena corresponds to a similar polarisation in the Cameroonian media One can identify two main political tendencies in the media first there are those who argue that all the government does is good and in the best interest of Cameroon and that the radical opposition is void of patriots and motivated only by selfish regional or ethnic self interests These comprise the publicly owned government controlled electronic and print media on the one hand and pro government privately owned newspapers on the other Second there are those who claim that all the radical opposition does or stands for is in the best interest of Cameroon and that the government and its allies are only motivated by a stubborn love of power and other selfish pursuits These comprise the bulk of the privately owned papers The media are polarised into two diametrically opposing camps each claiming to know and represent the best interests of the Cameroonian people      Journalism and the Debate Over Privacy Craig LaMay, 2003-09-12

Journalism and the Debate Over Privacy situates the discussion of issues of privacy in the landscape of professional journalism Privacy problems present the widest gap between what journalism ethics suggest and what the law allows This edited volume examines these problems in the context of both free expression theory and newsroom practice Including essays by some of the country's foremost First Amendment scholars the volume starts off in Part I with an examination of privacy in theoretical terms intended to start the reader thinking broadly about conceptual problems in discussions about journalism and privacy Part II builds on the theoretical underpinnings and looks at privacy problems as they are experienced by working journalists This volume features discussion of privacy as a socially constructed right a moving target that changes with technology social norms national experience and journalistic practice privacy as both a property and a commercial right privacy in terms of journalism ethics and journalistic codes privacy as an attribute of press independence from government and Bartnicki v Vopper and its implications for journalism With this volume editor Craig L LaMay provides a concise intellectually provocative overview of a topic that is of growing importance to journalists both legally and ethically The work is intended for scholars and advanced students in communication law ethics and First Amendment rights and is also appropriate for First Amendment and media law classes in law schools

Arab Mass Media William A. Rugh, 2004-02-28 Since September 11 2001 and the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq many television viewers in the United States have become familiar with Al Jazeera as offering an alternative take on events from that presented by mainstream U S media as well as disseminating anti American invective Westerners have tended toward simplistic views of Arab newspapers radio and television assuming that they are all under government control and that freedom of press is non existent William A Rugh a long time observer of the Arab mass media offers a more nuanced picture of the Arab press as it relates to the political situation in the Arab world today Although governmental influence over the media is stronger in the Middle East than in Europe or the United States Rugh argues that there is more diversity in the Arab media than most people in the West realize In reality the Arab media are coming to reflect the diversity and wide range of opinions of those within the Arab world itself In particular the advent of privately owned Arab satellite television in the 1990s has led to significant liberalization of the media throughout the region Rugh concludes that a democracy of ideas and voices is slowly growing in the Arab world and he remains guardedly optimistic about the positive role the Arab media can play in processes of democratization and nation building

The Kelmscott Press William S. Peterson, 1991-01-01 From a quantitative point of view the achievement of the Kelmscott Press may not seem impressive between 1891 and 1898 it produced fifty two books and a set of specimen pages for another book Yet each was remarkably beautiful Designed by William Morris printed on hand presses ornamented with initials and borders by Morris and illustrated often by Edward Burne Jones these few Kelmscott Press books are famous everywhere today Why they have so profoundly affected twentieth century theories of book design and what cultural significance the founding of the Kelmscott Press played are some of the questions the author considers

The Zimbabwean Crisis after Mugabe Tendai Mangena, Oliver Nyambi, Gibson Ncube, 2021-12-30 This book examines the ways in which political discourses of crisis and newness are reproduced, circulated, naturalised, received and contested in Post Mugabe Zimbabwe. Going beyond the ordinariness of conventional political, human and social science methods, the book offers new and engaging multi-disciplinary approaches that treat discourse and language as important sites to encounter the politics of contested representations of the Zimbabwean crisis in the wake of the 2017 coup. The book centres discourse on new approaches to contestations around the discursive framing of various aspects of the socio-economic and political crisis related to significant political changes in Zimbabwe post 2017. Contributors in this volume, most of whom experienced the complex transition first-hand, examine some of the ways in which language functions as a socio-cultural and political mechanism for creating imaginaries, circulating, defending and contesting conceptions, visions, perceptions and knowledges of the post-Mugabe turn in the Zimbabwean crisis and its management by the New Dispensation. This book will be of interest to scholars of African studies, postcolonial studies, language discourse studies, African politics and culture.

Introduction to Anthropology Jennifer Hasty, David G. Lewis, Marjorie M. Snipes, 2024-09-16 Designed to meet the scope and sequence of your course, Introduction to Anthropology is a four-field text integrating diverse voices, engaging field activities and meaningful themes like Indigenous experiences and social inequality to engage students and enrich learning. The text showcases the historical context of the discipline with a strong focus on anthropology as a living and evolving field. There is significant discussion of recent efforts to make the field more diverse in its practitioners, the questions it asks and in the applications of anthropological research to address contemporary challenges. In addressing social inequality, the text drives readers to consider the rise and impact of social inequalities based on forms of identity and difference such as gender, ethnicity, race and class, as well as oppression and discrimination. The contributors to and dangers of socioeconomic inequality are fully addressed and the role of inequality in social dysfunction, disruption and change is noted. The European Union and the Regulation of Media Markets Alison Harcourt, 2005 National broadcasting and press regulation is undergoing a process of convergence in Europe. This book, newly available in paperback, explains how this process has been shaped by the actions of the European Union (EU) institutions. Alison Harcourt observes that whilst communications is one of the EU's most successful policy areas, European decision-making is eroding the national capacity to regulate for the public interest. European level efforts to protect public interest goals have been constrained by the European Treaties. The author argues that increased European coordination in public interest regulation could be more conducive to growth and competitiveness than the dismantling of existing national laws This however would require changes to the political composition of the European Union This book assesses the potential EU media regulation provides for market growth and the protection of media pluralism the citizen and ultimately democracy itself These opportunities are presented in the coming decade with the developing European Constitution EU enlargement and the implementation and revision of European regulation
