Material Culture and Kinship in Poland Siobhan Magee,2020-05-27 In this ethnography of Krakowian society Siobhan Magee explores essential questions on the relationship between fur and culture in Poland How can wearing a fur coat indicate someone s political views in Krakow beyond their opinion on animal rights What kinds of associations are given to someone wearing a fur coat in Poland And what impact does generational difference have on the fur wearing traditions of modern day Krakowians Magee looks further into detailed analyses of conversations held relating to fur including why fur is an apt inheritance for a grandmother to pass on to her granddaughter what it was like trading fur on black markets during socialism and why some anti fur activists link fur to patriarchal power and the Roman Catholic Church In so doing it becomes clear how fur is an evocative textile with an uncommonly rich symbolic and historical significance Magee s research uncovers the symbolic and historic significance that fur evokes in relation to culture in Poland In her investigations her ethnography becomes a means for understanding generational difference in Poland Written with reference to extensive fieldwork Magee goes on to show how the classification of generation can be a much more accessible indicator and measure of difference than other categories including sexuality class and faith Thus generation and inheritance are shown to be uniquely powerful idioms with which to discuss power and social change in Poland A new contribution to material culture and the sensory turn this will be of interest to scholars of anthropology ethnography eastern Europe and material culture and textiles The Mechanic's Magazine, Museum, Register, Journal and Gazette; Volume 28 Anonymous,1832 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the
