Jean Toomer Barbara Foley, 2014-07-15 The 1923 publication of Cane established Jean Toomer as a modernist master and one of the key literary figures of the emerging Harlem Renaissance Though critics and biographers alike have praised his artistic experimentation and unflinching eyewitness portraits of Jim Crow violence few seem to recognize how much Toomer's interest in class struggle catalyzed by the Russian Revolution and the post World War One radical upsurge situate his masterwork in its immediate historical context In Jean Toomer Race Repression and Revolution Barbara Foley explores Toomer's political and intellectual connections with socialism the New Negro movement and the project of Young America Examining his rarely scrutinized early creative and journalistic writings as well as unpublished versions of his autobiography she recreates the complex and contradictory consciousness that produced Cane Foley's discussion of political repression runs parallel with a portrait of repression on a personal level Examining family secrets heretofore unexplored in Toomer scholarship she traces their sporadic surfacing in Cane Toomer's text she argues exhibits a political unconscious that is at once public and private *Catalog of Copyright Entries. Deshpande,2012-12-06 The present world population of about five billion and its projected growth create enormous pressures and demands for food and industrial raw materials It is to crop plants one of our precious few renewable resources that we must look to meet most of these needs Globally about 88% of our caloric requirements and 90% of our protein ultimately derive from plant sources ample evidence of their importance to humankind Our survival will therefore continue to depend on the world's largest and certainly most important industry agriculture Yet in spite of our long history of domestication and civilization the number of crop species involved in sustaining human life is strictly limited Essentially some twenty four crops protect us from starvation To know these basic food crop plants to study how they function and how their productivity may be improved is the first step in solving the world food problem The primary objectives in writing this book were to address this challenge and to review comprehensively the wealth of available yet scattered information on food crop productivity and processing Unlike several other texts and monographs in this field the present work was intended to give in a single volume a quick informative view of the various problems from field to table concerning the major food crops worldwide

Male Sterility in Higher Plants Mohan L.H. Kaul,2012-12-06 Nature has something more in view than that its own proper males should fecundate each blossom Andrew Knight Philosophical Transactions 1799 Sterility implicating the male sex solely presents a paradoxical situation in which universality and uniqueness are harmoniously blended It maintains a built in outbreeding system but is not an isolating mechanism as male steriles the self emasculated plants outcross with their male fertile sibs normally Both genes nuclear and cytoplasmic and environment individually as well as conjointly induce male sterility the former being genetic and the latter nongenetic Genetic male sterility is controlled either exclusively by nuclear genes or by the complementary action of nuclear and cytoplasmic genes The former is termed genic and the latter gene cytoplasmic male sterility Whereas genic male sterility exhibits Mendelian inheritance gene cytoplasmic male sterility is non Mendelian with specific transmissibility of the maternal cytoplasm type Genetic male sterility is documented in 617 species and species crosses comprising 320 species 162 genera and 43 families Of these genic male sterility occurs in 216 species and 17 species crosses and gene cytoplasmic male sterility in 16 species and 271 species crosses The Predominance of species exhibiting genic male sterility and of species crosses exhibiting gene cytoplasmic male sterility is due to the fact that for the male sterility expression in the former mutation of nuclear genes is required but in the latter
