The Sound and the Fury William Faulkner, 2022-08-01 William Faulkner's The Sound and the Fury is a groundbreaking novel that employs a unique narrative structure and a stream of consciousness style to delve into the complexities of the Compson family set in a decaying Southern plantation society. Divided into four sections each with varying perspectives including that of Benji a mentally disabled man the novel reveals the disintegration of an aristocratic family over time capturing themes of time memory and the struggle against an inevitable decline. Faulkner's intricate use of symbolism shifting timelines and rich lyrical prose immerses the reader in the psychological depths of his characters showcasing the broader societal decay in early 20th century America. Over the course of the 30 years or so related in the novel the family falls into financial ruin loses its religious faith and the respect of the town of Jefferson and many of them die tragically. The novel is separated into four narratives. The first reflecting events occurring and consequent thoughts and memories on April 7 1928 is written in the voice and from the perspective of Benjamin Benji Compson an intellectually disabled 33 year old man. The second section taking place on June 2 1910 focuses on Quentin Compson Benji's older brother and the events leading up to Quentin's suicide. This section is written in the stream of consciousness style and also contains frequent chronological leaps. In the third section set a day before the first on April 6 1928 Faulkner writes from the point of view of Jason Quentin's cynical younger brother.
