Kemper, Anya Peterson Royce, 2002-04-23 Some field sites have hosted anthropologists for as long as half a century Chronicling Cultures collects articles from principals of many of the longest and best known anthropology projects from four continents the Kung Harvard Chiapas Project Gwembe Valley Tzintzuntzan and Navajo among others These projects have brought a new understanding of change and persistence in communities over time They have forced researchers to develop methods of involving local communities in research of using data over generations of scholars and of resolving ethical issues of research versus advocacy The projects range from individual scholars who return home year after year to large scale institutionalized projects involving many researchers and numerous studies This volume will be an important addition to the literature on fieldwork on the history of ethnology and on ethnographers role in their host cultures Space in Language and Linguistics Peter Auer, Martin Hilpert, Anja Stukenbrock, Benedikt Szmrecsanyi, 2013-11-27 This book brings together three perspectives on language and space that are quite well researched within themselves but which so far are lacking productive interconnections Specifically the book aims to interconnect the following research areas Language space and geography Grammar space and cognition Language and interactional spaces The contributions in this book cover geographical language variation within and across languages language use in stationary and mobile interactional spaces computer mediated communication and spatial reasoning across languages This range of issues showcases the thematic and methodological breadth of research on language and space In order to identify interconnections the respective contributions are accompanied by commentaries that highlight common threads The Vanishing Languages of the Pacific Rim Osahito Miyaoka, Osamu Sakiyama, Michael E.  Zinacantan Chamula and Chenalh are neighboring Mayan communities situated in highland Chiapas Mexico near the city of San Crist bal Las Casas The inhabitants of the three communities speak dialects of the Tzotzil language Five religious fiestas celebrated by these communities in honor of their saints provide the data for Victoria Bricker s comparative study of ritual humor In Chenalh and Chamula performances of ritual humor are concentrated in the five day period of a single fiesta while in Zinacantan similar performances are distributed over threee fiestas In these fiesta settings performers in distinctive costumes make obscene and sacreligious remarks in the context of religious ritual These performances are defined as ritual humor because they occur only in ritual settings Bricker s study constitutes a controlled cross cultural comparison of ceremonial or ritual humor in its social and cultural setting Much new information is provided in verbatim texts recorded during actual fiesta performances The study reveals that although the three communities share a common pool of ritual symbols they elaborate them differently in ritual humor The study analyzes the symbolic expression of values social organization and interethnic relations Traditional Storytelling Today Margaret Read MacDonald, 2013-12-16
 Traditional Storytelling Today explores the diversity of contemporary storytelling traditions and provides a forum for in depth discussion of interesting facets of comtemporany storytelling Never before has such a wealth of information about storytelling traditions been gathered together Storytelling is alive and well throughout the world as the approximately 100 articles by more than 90 authors make clear Most of the essays average 2 000 words and discuss a typical storytelling event give a brief sample text and provide theory from the folklorist A comprehensive index is provided Bibliographies afford the reader easy access to additional resources Pointing Sotaro Kita, 2003-06-20 Pointing has captured the interest of scholars from various fields who study communication However ideas and findings have been scattered across diverse publications in different disciplines and opportunities for interdisciplinary exchange have been very limited The editor s aim is to provide an arena for such exchange by bringing together papers on pointing gestures from disciplines such as developmental psychology psycholinguistics sign language linguistics linguistic anthropology conversational analysis and primatology Questions raised by the editors include Do chimpanzees produce and comprehend pointing gestures in the same way as humans What are cross cultural variations of pointing gestures In what sense are pointing gestures human universal What is the relationship between the development of pointing and language in children What linguistic roles do pointing gestures play in signed language Why do speakers sometimes point to seemingly empty space in front of them during conversation How do pointing gestures contribute to the unfolding of face to face interaction that involves objects in the environment What are the semiotic processes that relate what is pointed at and what is actually meant by the pointing gesture the relationship between the two are often not as simple as one might think Do pointing gestures facilitate the production of accompanying speech The volume can be used as a required text in a course on gestural communication with multidisciplinary perspectives It can also be used as a supplemental text in an advanced undergraduate or graduate course on interpersonal communication cross cultural communication language development and psychology of language The Mayan Languages Judith Aissen,Nora C.
