sides of the Atlantic have recently begun to open up as never before the scholarly study of race and racism in France These original essays bring together in one volume new work in history sociology anthropology political science and legal studies Each of the eleven articles presents fresh research on the tension between a republican tradition in France that has long denied the legitimacy of acknowledging racial difference and a lived reality in which racial prejudice shaped popular views about foreigners Jews immigrants and colonial people Several authors also examine efforts to combat racism since the 1970s

Islamophobia Jim Wolfreys,2017 Drawing on interviews on the ground the author considers the legacy of colonialism the notion of citizenship in the Republic the ongoing debates over burkinis hijabs etc Race Politics in Britain and France

Erik Bleich,2003-05-26 Britain and France have developed substantially different policies to manage racial tensions since the 1960s in spite of having similar numbers of post war ethnic minority immigrants This book provides the first detailed historical exploration of race policy development in these two countries In this path breaking work Bleich argues against common wisdom that attributes policy outcomes to the role of powerful interest groups or to the constraints of existing institutions instead emphasizing the importance of frames as widely held ideas that propelled policymaking in different directions British policymakers framing of race and racism principally in North American terms of color discrimination encouraged them to import many policies from across the Atlantic For decades after WWII by contrast French policy leaders framed racism in terms influenced largely by their Vichy past which encouraged policies designed primarily to counter hate speech while avoiding the recognition of race found across the English Channel

Schain, 2012-06-18 Updated through 2012 with all new material in every chapter Schain's book provides a detailed comparative look at the policies that drive and inform immigration politics in three Western countries and shows how immigration policy has political sources far beyond labor market needs

Immigration, Islam, and the Politics of Belonging in France Elaine R. Thomas, 2011-11-29 Over the past three decades neither France's treatment of Muslims nor changes in French British and German immigration laws have confirmed multiculturalist hopes or postnationalist expectations Yet analyses positing unified national models also fall short in explaining contemporary issues of national and cultural identity Immigration Islam and the Politics of Belonging in France A Comparative Framework presents a more productive multifaceted view of citizenship and nationality Political scientist Elaine R Thomas casts new light on recent conflicts over citizenship and national identity in France as well as such contentious policies as laws restricting Muslim headscarves Drawing on key methods and insights of ordinary language philosophers from Austin to Wittgenstein Thomas looks at parliamentary debates print journalism radio and television transcripts official government reports legislation and other primary sources related to the rights and status of immigrants and their descendants Her analysis of French discourse shows how political strategies and varied ideas of membership have intertwined in France since the late 1970s Thomas tracks the crystallization of a restrictive but apparently consensual interpretation of French republicanism arguing that its ideals are increasingly strained even as they remain politically powerful Thomas also examines issues of Islam immigration and culture in other settings including Britain and Germany Immigration Islam and the Politics of Belonging in France gives scholarly researchers political observers and human rights advocates tools for better characterizing and comparing the theoretical stakes of immigration and integration and advances our understanding of an increasingly significant aspect of ethnic and religious politics in France Europe and beyond them This study combines ethnographic work in three countries The Netherlands the United Kingdom and France with a new theoretical frame regimes of secularity Its mission is to contribute to an understanding of minority identity construction in secular societies In addition to engaging with academic literature and ethnographic research the book takes a critical look at three cities three nation contexts and three grassroots forms of Muslim religious collective organization comparing and contrasting them from a historical perspective Carolina Ivanescu offers a thorough theoretical grounding and tests existing theories empirically Beginning from the idea that religion and citizenship are both crucial aspects of the state s understanding of Muslim identities she demonstrates the relevance of collective identification processes that are articulated through belonging to geographical and ideological entities These forms of collective identification and minority management Ivanescu asserts are configuring novel possibilities for the place of religion in the modern social world

Music, National Identity and the Politics of Location Vanessa Knights, 2016-04-29 How are national identities constructed and articulated through music Popular music has long been associated with political dissent and the nation state has consistently demonstrated a determination to seek out and procure for itself a stake in the management of its popular musics Similarly popular musics have been used from the ground up as sites for both populist and popular critiques of nationalist sentiment from the position of both a globalizing and a local vernacular culture The contributions in this book arrive at a critical moment in the development of the study of national cultures and musicology The book ranges from considerations of the ideological focus of cultural nationalism through to analyses of musical hybridity and musical articulations of other kinds of identities at odds with national identity The processes of global homogenization are thereby shown to have brought about a transitional crisis for national cultural identities the evolution of these identities particularly with reference to the concept of authenticity in music is situated within broader debates on power political economy and constructions of the self Theorizations of practice are employed after the manner of Bourdieu Gramsci Goffman Gadamer Habermas Bhabha Lacan and Zizek Each contribution acts as a case study to characterize the strategies through which differing modes of musical discourse engage critique or obscure discourses on national identity The studies include discussions of musical representations of Irishness the relationship between Afropop and World Music Norwegian club music the revival of traditional music in Serbia resistance to cultural homogeneity in Brazil contemporary Uyghur song in Northwest China rap and race in French society technobanda from the barrios of Los Angeles and Spanish Moroccan ra In this way the book seeks to characterize the ideological configurations that help to activate and sustain hegemonic amb

Ethnic Minority Migrants in Britain and France Rahsaan Maxwell, 2012-03-05 This book addresses why some ethnic minority migrant groups have better economic and political integration outcomes than others The central claim is that social integration leads to trade offs with economic and political integration The logic behind this claim is that socially segregated groups may have difficulties interacting with mainstream society but will have more capacity for group mobilization That mobilization can improve economic and political integration In comparison socially integrated groups may have greater capacity to interact with mainstream society but also less likelihood of developing significant group mobilization resources As a result this can limit their economic and political integration outcomes Rahsaan Maxwell develops this argument with evidence from Britain and France claiming that similar group level dynamics exist despite numerous national level contextual differences and provides a brief extension of the argument to The Netherlands and the United States

African Political Activism in Postcolonial France Gillian Glaes, 2018-07-11 African Political Activism in Postcolonial France engages with several areas of scholarly inquiry ranging from the study of immigrants to the investigation of surveillance and the legacy of colonialism Within migration studies many important analyses have focused on integration yielding critical contributions to our understanding of immigration and identity This work moves in a different direction Factoring in the dynamics of colonialism decolonization and their effect on immigrant political activism and state policy in the postcolonial Cold War era reveals that immigrants from francophone Sub Saharan Africa were key players who shaped the development of public policy toward immigrants Through this approach we can understand how republicanism colonial ideology immigration policy and immigrant political activism intersected in the post colonial era shaping the reception of African workers and affecting their lives and experiences in France
