Everyday Religion Nancy T. Ammerman, 2007 Social scientists sometimes seem not to know what to do with religion In the first century of sociology's history as a discipline the reigning concern was explaining the emergence of the modern world and that brought with it an expectation that religion would simply fade from the scene as societies became diverse complex and enlightened As the century approached its end however a variety of global phenomena remained dramatically unexplained by these theories Among the leading contenders for explanatory power to emerge at this time were rational choice theories of religious behavior Researchers who have spent time in the field observing religious groups and interviewing practitioners however have questioned the sufficiency of these market models Studies abound that describe thriving religious phenomena that fit neither the old secularization paradigm nor the equations predicting vitality only among organizational entrepreneurs with strict orthodoxies In this collection of previously unpublished essays scholars who have been immersed in field research in a wide variety of settings draw on those observations from the field to begin to develop more helpful ways to study religion in modern lives The authors examine how religion functions on the ground in a pluralistic society how it is experienced by individuals and how it is expressed in social institutions Taken as a whole these essays point to a new approach to the study of religion one that emphasizes individual experience and social context over strict categorization and data collection 10X Growth Mindset Ashvin Verma, 2023-11-20 It says: "Your mindset is your greatest asset." As I grew up, I was intrigued by the fact that how some people are so successful in their life and others, despite their aspirations and painstaking efforts, lived a very mediocre life and achieve very average results. My conditioning and surrounding environment ingrained this mantra into me: To reap great results, required lots of hard work. However, like most people, despite putting my blood and sweat, I struggled to create the outcome I set out for myself. This curiosity led me to on a journey to research how someone successful became that way. I have attended more than 2 dozen training programs, learned through many self-help books, researched different aspects of thought process and mindset that are critical to creating success in life. In my journey to understand and crack this code of success, I learned what, why, and how's of growth success. I understood that the most critical components which decide your overall results in life is your attitude, environment, habits, skills, and most importantly, your mindset. The most satisfying piece of my research is to get to the understanding that no matter what, all the factors that determine success fall under the learnable category and anybody can create success and growth in their life by constantly working on each of these aspects and developing themselves one step at a time. As I started applying the principles and the practices I learned in my pursuit to crack the success code, I am able to push beyond my comfort zone and able to keep consistency in my efforts much easier than ever before. My results started transforming not only in my business but also in my personal life, my health, and my relationships as well. My intention is to share and help everyone who has the hunger to make it big in life, ready to put in the hard work but have not yet been able to develop clarity on critical questions like what, where, and when.
