Institutions worldwide call for joint actions of multiple actors in partnerships to accelerate the transitions towards sustainable food systems and reach food security for everybody, always. This requires insights into co-creating processes. Here, 52 European food system cases are analyzed. A methodology based on the game structure is used that permits standardizing data collection and extracting generic and cases-specific findings. Game building blocks correspond with key elements of co-creation processes, like defining mutually accepted objectives, engaging in types of activities, and efficient use of resources, boundary conditions, timings, and scales of operations. Results further indicate that different types of inclusive partnerships emerge, in which especially innovative private, including smallholders, and academic actors co-create value, all contributing to sustainability. The public and civil society actors emerge as important initiators, enablers, and organizers of scales of interaction, allowing generating snowball effects. Findings lead to an adapted concept for co-creating partnerships in food systems and recommendations for the European Partnership on sustainable food systems.

Ernst Bloch Who are we Where do we come from and Where are we heading In this way and without knowing it Konrad Hagedorn initiated a collective action process he would have very much enjoyed if he had been allowed to take part in it But it was our aim and constant motivation to surprise him with this collection of essays in his honour Konrad Hagedorn was reared as the youngest child of a peasant family on a small farm in the remote moorland of East Frisia Germany During his childhood in the poverty ridden years after the Second World War he faced a life where humans were heavily dependent on using nature around them for their livelihoods meanwhile he learned about the fragility of the environment As a boy he tended a one room schoolhouse where his great intellectual talents were first recognised and used for co teaching his schoolmates These early teaching experiences might have laid the foundations for his later becoming a dedicated lecturer and mentor

i temi dello sviluppo locale ricalibrando le categorie classiche che derivano dall'analisi distrettuale e dalla successiva letteratura con le questioni più proprie dello sviluppo rurale spesso sottovalutate in questi studi incentrati in prevalenza sulla piccola impresa manifatturiera. Si tratta di un passo obbligato che deriva dalla crescente importanza che l'agricoltura e i sistemi agroalimentari e più in generale lo spazio rurale rivestono nel contesto globale. La questione rurale tornata quindi più che mai attuale e costituisce un punto di osservazione privilegiato per cogliere le dimensioni dei mutamenti e delle innovazioni sia a livello locale sia globale. Oggi si parla non a caso di Nuova agricoltura e di nuovi contadini per intendere un modello innovativo di imprese autorganizzate e multifunzionali che si allontanano dall'agroindustria per differenziarsi e produrre qualità ma anche beni collettivi in stretta relazione ai luoghi di azione considerati come sede ethos del proprio mestiere. Il volume analizza queste nuove dinamiche di sviluppo rurale e le politiche a esse connesse proponendo un metodo e degli strumenti per l'analisi dei processi attraverso studi di caso. L'attenzione rivolta soprattutto al ruolo dei sistemi locali e delle filiere territoriali alla centralità di una governance territoriale e della produzione di beni collettivi all'importanza dei saperi locali e del capitale relazionale alla ridefinizione dei confini tra rurale ed urbano alla ruralità come spazio di azione per politiche integrate alle nuove forme di multifunzionalità agricola. In questo quadro le politiche locali e sovralocali chiamano i territori a progettare percorsi di sviluppo rurale attraverso cui garantire nuove forme di coesione e inclusione sociale in cui integrazione e partecipazione diretta degli attori locali costituiscono una caratteristica essenziale.
