The Presence Of The Past An Introduction To Landscape History:

The Presence of the Past Penelope Lively, 1976      An Environmental History of France Peter McPhee, 2024-11-14 The French countryside is as beloved by the many millions of tourists who visit it each year as it is of French people themselves But it has not always looked like it does today An Environmental History of France instead presents the countryside in which people live and work and through which they travel as a human creation across 250 years of economic and cultural change war and revolution It is a book about the making of the French landscape and an engrossing story linking human geography history agriculture and culture Showing an awareness of the origins and nature of current ecological and social challenges Peter McPhee uses a blend of environmental and cultural approaches to paint a vivid picture of rural France's modern history From the aristocratic control of agrarian resources in the 1770s to widespread mechanisation in the 19th century through to the impact of the World Wars and an intriguing discussion about the uncertain future of French rural communities McPhee provides a nuanced detailed and absorbing account of a distinctive version of France that is essential to the country's identity

Donnelly, Aimee Mollaghan, 2023-10-05 The turn of the millennium has heralded an outgrowth of culture that demonstrates an awareness of the ephemeral nature of history and the complexity underpinning the relationship between location and the past This has been especially apparent in the shifting relationship between landscape memory and sound in film television and other media The result is growing interest in soundtracks as part of audiovisual culture as well as an interest in the spectral aspects of culture more generally This collection of essays focuses on audiovisual forms that foreground landscape sound and memory The scope of inquiry emphasises the ghostly qualities of a certain body of soundtracks extending beyond merely the idea of scary films or haunted houses Rather the notion of sonic haunting is tied to ideas of trauma anxiety or nostalgia associated with spatial and temporal dislocation in contemporary society Touchstones for the approach are the concepts of psychogeography and hauntology pervasive and established critical strategies that are interrogated and refined in relation to the reification of the spectral within the soundtracks under consideration here      The Encyclopedia of

Penelope Lively Molly Hurley Moran, 1993 Lively's fiction particularly Moon Tiger winner of the prestigious Booker Prize in 1987 and City of the Mind published in 1991 belies the conventional view that the postwar British novel has reacted against the experimentation of the modernist period Moran writes The surface quaintness of Lively's novels which are infused with her passion for architectural and colloquial history and can be reminiscent of the village and vicars school of British novelists can be peeled back to reveal a fictional world laden with the psychological complexities of modern life agnosticism and existential anxiety lack of belief in an objective reality consciousness of the tenuous nature of such constructs as language and linear time Key to the thematic and technical composition of Lively's work Moran argues is her view of the subjective nature of reality and the fluidity of time particularly the way individual memory can permeate the present
