The Private Farmer Transformation And Legitimation In Advanced Capitalist Agriculture:

The Private Farmer Stephen Pile, 1990 Studie o a via enquetes naar de wijze waarop Engelse melkveehouders de hun opgelegde bedrijfsmatige veranderingen begrijpen en interpreteren en in hoeverre zij de regering verantwoordelijk achten voor moeilijke bedrijfsomstandigheden

The Private Farmer Stephen John Pile, 1988 Farming for Us All Michael Mayerfeld Bell, 2024-07-02 Climate change Habitat loss Soil erosion Groundwater depletion Toxins in our food Inhumane treatment of farm animals Increasing farm worker exploitation Hunger and malnutrition in the midst of plenty What will it take for farmers in the United States to embrace sustainable practices Michael Mayerfeld Bell's Farming for Us All first tackled this question twenty years ago providing crucial insight into how the structure of US agriculture created this situation and exploring by contrast the practices of farmers who are working together to radically change how they think learn and grow This updated edition of his now classic work reflects on the lessons learned over the past two decades Constrained by an oppressive nexus of markets regulations subsidies and technology farmers find themselves undermining their own economic and social security as well as the security of the land Bell turns to Practical Farmers of Iowa PFI that state's largest sustainable agriculture group He traces how PFI creates an agriculture that engages others farmers researchers officials and consumers in a common conversation about what agriculture could look like Through dialogue PFI members crossbreed knowledge discovering pragmatic solutions to help crops grow in ways that sustain families communities societies economies and environments Farming for Us All makes the case that for sustainable farming to flourish new social relations are as important to cultivate as new crops This book is necessary and hopeful reading for anyone concerned about the present and future of food and farming

Constructing The Countryside Terry Marsden, Jonathon Murdoch, Philip Lowe, Richard C Munton, Andrew Flynn, 2005-08-16 As the first book in the Restructuring Rural Areas series Constructing the countryside presents a new methodological approach to the analysis of rural change The authors seek to link wider developments in the global political economy to the behaviour of local actors and in so doing they place research into rural studies much more firmly than hitherto in the mainstream of social science enquiry The outcome is a book that promotes a truly interdisciplinary approach through which the constant reconstruction of the countryside can be properly understood This holistic perspective sustained by an historical analysis of rural change has been made possible by the extensive research experience of the authors The book is a product of the work done at the London Countryside Research Centre which was set up in 1989 by the Economic and Social Research Council The Centre's research has focused upon the social and political forces for change in rural areas and how these relate to rapid alterations in national economic circumstances and to public policies affecting the countryside for example the Common Agricultural Policy of the EC On the one hand the book provides a set of insights into the trends that will guide rural change in advanced economies into the next century on the other it offers a challenging account of how they can be investigated Constructing the countryside will appeal to both students and staff in a wide range of social science disciplines including agricultural economics environmental management planning land economy geography and rural sociology and to all those concerned with the future development of rural areas This book is intended for students and researchers in rural planning and environmental geographical studies whether within a geographical or a sociological milieu      Development Sociology Norman Long,2003-09-02 In this exciting and challenging work Norman Long brings together years of work and thought in development studies to provide a key text for guiding future development research and practice Using case studies and empirical material from Africa and Latin America Development Sociology focuses on the theoretical and methodological foundations of an actor oriented and social constructionist form of analysis This style of analysis is opposed to the traditional structuralist institutional analysis which is often applied in development studies With an accessible mix of general debate critical literature reviews and original case study materials this work covers a variety of key development issues Among many important topics discussed the author looks at commoditisation small scale enterprise and social capital knowledge interfaces networks and power globalisation and localisation as well as policy formulation and planned intervention processes This book should be read for its desire to pursue a form of analysis that helps us to understand better and more realistically the kinds of development interventions and social transformations that have characterised the second half of the twentieth century and will no doubt continue to characterise future development studies      A Future for Regional Australia I. W. Gray,Geoffrey Lawrence,2001-07-31 This book interprets the predicament faced by Australia s regional people from their own perspective and proposes a means by which they can act together to find a secure future under globalisation It argues that neoliberalism in combination with its real world effects in economic policy are driving regional Australia further into social environmental and economic decay The book will be of great interest to all concerned about the future of regional Australia and will make a lively and relevant text for students studying the social sciences in the countryside or in the major cities      The Rural Richard Munton,2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agricultures has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts

"To Farm Or Not to Farm" Ulrike Schwarz, 2004 Why did Joe get the farm and not Jo Why Rob and not Robin This book describes the answers farm families have to enact for each generation anew Written by a farmer's wife and mother it is for all who are interested in understanding the underlying dynamics of succession and inheritance in farm family businesses regardless of discipline profession and background It has been arranged in chronological order following the individual's growing into or out of the family business and offers exciting insights via easily understood graphs and succinct quotes from industry and research

Writing the Rural Professor Paul J Cloke, Professor Marcus A Doel, Dr David Matless, PhD, Professor Nigel Thrift, Dr Martin Phillips, 1994-07-28 This book arises out of an ESRC project devoted to an examination of the economic social and cultural impacts of the service class on rural areas The research was an attempt to document

these impacts through close empirical work in a set of three rural communities but something happened on the way The authors found that the rural became a real sticking point Respondents used it in different ways as a bludgeon as a badge as a barometer to signify many different things security identity community domesticity gender sexuality ethnicity nearly always by drawing on many different sources the media the landscape friends and kin animals It became abundantly clear that the rural whatever chameleon form it took was a prime and deeply felt determinant of the actions of many respondents Yet it was also clear that to the authors they possessed no theoretical framework that could allow them to negotiate the rural to deconstruct its diverse nature as a category Rather each of the extended essays in the book is an attempt by each author to draw out one aspect of the rural by drawing on different traditions in social and cultural theory      Research Training for Social Scientists Dawn Burton,2000-03-15 With indispensable advice for students from all social science backgrounds this handbook provides the core conceptual and practical skills to embark on successful research The organization of the book reflects the knowledge that is required in order to become a competent and effective researcher It follows the life cycle of the research project it begins with a discussion of ethical and philosophical issues presents guides to both quantitative and qualitative data collection and analysis provides help on using computers in research and includes advice on how to write up and present a research project Based on the UK Economic and Social Research Council advice on the training which students should undertake in preparation for postgraduate research this book will be invaluable for all beginning researchers

Social Work with the Black African Diaspora Washington Marovatsanga,Paul Michael Garrett,2022-07-14 Social work education and interventions with Black African families are frequently impaired because of discrimination racism and the structuring priorities of neoliberalism Rooted in rich and fascinating empirical work with practitioners and educators this urgent scholarly and accessible book emphasises that Black Lives Matter Intent on nurturing more progressive and pluralistic practices in pedagogy and practice the book is a timely and significant contribution seeking to remake social work approaches to issues of race racism and social justice      Keeping it in the Family John R. Baker,Matt Lobley,Ian

Whitehead,2016-04-22 As the largest group of natural resource managers on the planet farmers are at the interface of the changing relationship between humans and the environment Typically organised around what might be considered the most basic of social units for generations the family farm has survived wide ranging exogenous challenges frequently preserving the line of succession to the next of kin Now as we face major questions about how we use land and the impact of our land use on the global environment farming once again faces a challenging and uncertain future This book draws on the experiences of farmers in Australia New Zealand North America Japan and the EU to examine the special features of family farms and in particular the tradition of succession which has enabled them to continue to have such a strong presence in the world today      Casting the Other Barbara Czarniawska,Heather Hopfl,2005-07-05 Casting the Other Maintaining Gender Inequalities in the Workplace focuses on the production and maintenance of gender inequalities in organizations By emphasizing difference as something to be managed many organizations institute the problem of difference and while organizations pay lip service to ideas of equality their day to day practices may be unchanged and unchallenged Discrimination of various groups such as women immigrants and older people continues and its dynamics remain unclear largely because of the difficulties of studying it in the field Additionally various programs aimed at removing inequality such as gender equality of managing diversity programs may actually promote it by making differences visible and stabilizing them Management under these circumstances comes to refer to the management of appearances which take the place of more radical acts to change the status quo      Globalization and Agri-food Restructuring David Burch, Roy E. Rickson, Geoffrey Lawrence, 1996 This collection looks at the change within the agri food industries of Australasia It presents an overview of theories surrounding the issues and covers areas such as trends in the retailing of foods and the linking of local and global industries      Bibliography of Agriculture ,1990      Restructuring the Countryside Andrew W. Gilg, 1992 This is a collection of papers presented at a Rural Geography Study Group conference held in January 1991 The book is divided into two sections section one examines the concepts and facts behind restructuring the countryside while section two provides nine case studies      The Deferential Farmer ,1989      The Australasian Review of African Studies ,2001      The New Agriculture George Edward Burling, 1999
