Forest Service s 100 anniversary Region Five retirees established an oral history committee They then conducted over fifty oral interviews from selected members of the regions past workforce The Forest Service Gerald W. Williams, 2006-11-30 Established in 1905 The Forest Service is steeped in history conflict strong personalities including Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot and the challenges of managing 193 million acres of national forests and grasslands This unique federal agency is one that combines forest management with wildlife fish recreation mining grazing and hundreds of other uses It operates in the midst of controversy and change The original intent was to protect the public forests protect the water supplies and when appropriate provide timber Much has changed over the last 100 years including many new laws but the fact that these lands are still fought over today shows the foresight of politicians foresters scientists and communities This work brings to light the many and varied activities of the agency that many people know little about in a world that is constantly changing Written by a former Forest Service national historian topics discussed in the work include wilderness and the Wilderness Act of 1964 recreation battles and interagency rivalry with the National Park Service timber management including clearcutting ecosystem management roadless area and controversies over RARE and RARE II studies fish and wildlife management including endangered species before and after the Endangered Species Act of 1973 and mining and the General Mining Act of 1872 It also discusses the future challenges forest fires water protection and restoration recreation involving the public and fish and wildlife Our Forest, Your Ecosystem, Their Timber Nicholas K. Menzies, 2007

Community based forest management CBFM is a model of forest management in which a community takes part in decision making and implementation and monitoring of activities affecting the natural resources around them CBFM provides a framework for a community members to secure access to the products and services that flow from the landscape in which they live and has become an essential component of any comprehensive approach to forest management In this volume Nicholas K Menzies looks at communities in China Zanzibar Brazil and India where despite differences in landscape climate politics and culture common challenges and themes arise in making a transition from forest management by government agencies to CBFM The stories of these four distinct places highlight the difficulties communities face when trying to manage their forests and negotiate partnerships with others interested in forest management such as the commercial forest sector or conservation and environmental organizations These issues are then considered against a growing body of research concerning what constitutes successful CBFM Drawing on published and unpublished case studies project reports and his own rich experience Menzies analyzes how CBFM fits into the broader picture of the management of natural resources highlighting the conditions that bring about effective practices and the most just and equitable stewardship of resources A critical companion for students researchers and practitioners Our Forest Your Ecosystem Their Timber provides a singular resource on the emergence and evolution of CBFM Introduction to Forests and Renewable Resources John C.

Hendee, Chad P. Dawson, Wenonah F. Sharpe, 2012-02-03 For 75 years few textbooks have served a topic as well as Introduction to Forests and Renewable Resources Widely recognized for its comprehensive yet engaging coverage this major revision provides an outstanding up to date overview of management issues conservation policies and practices related to forests and renewable resources and an authoritative perspective on how these topics are evolving New directions are covered including green certification of forest management and wood products improved harvest practices in response to public concerns carbon sequestration and ecological services as important forest yields ecosystem restoration and resilience as management responds to concerns about global warming and more Well illustrated with new examples case studies and abundant photos this eighth edition describes the importance and history of forests evolution of policy North American distribution of forests and moves on to describe forest health strategies to combat insects disease damage from mammals and fire Ecological principles are explained as basis for forest management with chapters on management of the associated resources of wildlife watersheds and streams range resources outdoor recreation and wilderness Market concerns and technology are embraced in chapters on economics measurement and analysis harvesting and forest products Concluding chapters describe management of forests and renewable resources by the federal government by states by private land owners and in urban areas and communities For forestry natural resource and environmental science students involved citizens and resource users and professionals this book is your reference and guide to forests and renewable resources

Forest Service Research and Development Peter Stine,2016 Forest Conservation Policy V. Alaric Sample,Anthony S.
