Knight, 2000-10-19 The United Nations is at a critical juncture It is faced with two distinct choices to remain a decision frozen in time or to develop a long term adaptation agenda and strategy that would allow it to be a relevant institution of global governance for the twenty first century Reform and reflexive institutional adjustments have failed to address underlying problems facing this organization After fifty five years of existence it is still considered an inefficient and ineffective world body Worse yet its relevance is being questioned This study offers a critique of existing UN change processes and then shifts focus to considerations of institutional learning strategies that would allow the UN to maintain relevance amidst the evolution of global governance arrangements Contexts of International Politics Gary Goertz, 1994-11-24 In this book Gary Goertz examines how states interact with their environment and contexts which are important in understanding international politics He presents a philosophical methodological and empirical discussion of three important contexts which affect decision makers history system structure and international norms The effects of these contexts are explored by viewing context in turn as cause as changing meaning and as a barrier The book engages with the literature on structural realism and international regimes and uses rational actor and diffusion models as theoretical references A number of concrete studies are provided using these contextual tools including oil nationalisation USSR East
