Status, Power and Ritual Interaction Professor Theodore D Kemper, 2013-01-28 Sociologists mile Durkheim Erving Goffman and Randall Collins broadly suppose that ritual is foundational for social life By contrast this book argues that ritual is merely surface beneath which lie status and power the behavioral dimensions that drive all social interaction Status Power and Ritual Interaction identifies status and power as the twin forces that structure social relations determine emotions and link individuals to the reference groups that deliver culture and administer preferences actions beliefs and ideas An especially important contention is that allegiance to ideas even those as fundamental as the belief that 1 1 2 is primarily faithfulness to the reference groups that foster the ideas and not to the ideas themselves This triggers the counter intuitive deduction that the self a concept many sociologists social psychologists and therapists prize so highly is feckless and irrelevant Status power theory leads also to derivations about motivation play humor sacred symbols social bonding creative thought love and sex and other social involvements now either obscure or misunderstood Engaging with Durkheim on collective effervescence Goffman on ritual cum public order and Collins on interaction ritual this book is richly illustrated with instances of how to examine many central questions about society and social interaction from the status power perspective It speaks not only to sociologists but also to anthropologists behavioral economists and social and clinical psychologists to all disciplines that examine or treat of social life

Third Edition 9781439856291 Status and Power in Verbal Interaction Julie Diamond, 1996-01-01 Status and Power in Verbal Interaction is a sociolinguistic study of conversation in a social context Using an ethnographic methodology and a network analysis of the social roles and relationships in a particular language community the book explores how speakers negotiate status relationship and ultimately contest power through discourse Of chief concern to the study is how speakers manage to negotiate relationship roles which here consists of institutional status as well as the more variable social standing using conversation Discourse is seen to be not only what people say but how they say it how speakers take the floor bring new topic to the floor interrupt each other and become a resource person in a conversation The study revolves around the idea that power while intricately tied to social standing and institutional status is more than the sum of one's institutional standing age education race and gender Though these factors convey rank conversants nonetheless use discourse to jockey for position and contest their relational role vis a vis their discourse partners While institutional standing may be more or less fixed power of relational roles fluctuates greatly because as the study shows power is accorded through a process of ratifying the positive self image of a speaker Thus one's standing in a group is a community negotiation By investigating power in community at a micro level of analysis this study adds a new dimension to existing understandings of power

Gender, Interaction, and Inequality Cecilia L. Ridgeway, 1992 Causal explanations are essential for theory building In focusing on causal mechanisms rather than descriptive effects the goal of this volume is to increase our theoretical understanding of the way gender operates in interaction Theoretical analyses of gender's effects in interaction in turn are necessary to understand how such effects might be implicated with individual level and social structural level processes in the larger system of gender inequality Despite other differences the contributors to this book all take what might be loosely called a microstructural approach to gender and interaction All agree that individuals come to interaction with certain common socially created beliefs cultural meanings experiences and social rules These include stereotypes about gendered activities and skills beliefs about the status value of gender rules for interacting in certain settings and so on However as individuals apply these beliefs and rules to the specific contingent events of interaction they combine and reshape their implications in distinctive ways that are particular to the encounter As a result individuals actively construct their social relations in the encounter through their interaction The patterns of relations that develop are not completely determined or scripted in advance by the beliefs and rules of the larger society Consequently there is a reciprocal causal relationship between constructed patterns of interaction and larger social structural forms The constructed patterns of social relations among a set of interactants can be thought of as micro level social structures or more simply microstructures Handbook of Metallurgical Process Design George E. Totten, Kiyoshi Funatani, Lin Xie, 2004-05-25 Reviewing an extensive array of procedures in hot and cold forming casting heat treatment machining and surface engineering of steel and aluminum this comprehensive reference explores a vast range of processes relating to metallurgical component design enhancing the production and the properties of engineered components while reducing manufacturing costs It surveys the role of computer simulation in alloy design and its impact on material structure and mechanical properties such as fatigue and wear It also discusses alloy design for various materials including steel iron aluminum magnesium titanium super alloy compositions and copper
