Cultivating Belief Sebastian Lecourt, 2018-04-05 This book explores how a group of Victorian liberal writers that included George Eliot Walter Pater and Matthew Arnold became attracted to new theories of religion as a function of race and ethnicity Since the early modern period British liberals had typically constructed religion as a zone of personal belief that defined modern individuality and interiority During the 1860s however Eliot Arnold and other literary liberals began to claim that religion could actually do the most for the modern self when it came as a kind of involuntary inheritance Stimulated by the emerging science of anthropology they imagined that religious experiences embedded in race or ethnicity could render the self heterogeneous while the individual who insisted upon selecting his or her own beliefs would become narrow and parochial By rethinking the grounds of religion this book argues these writers were ultimately trying to shift liberal individualism away from a classical Protestant liberalism that celebrated interiority and agency and toward one that valorized eclecticism and the capacity to keep multiple values in play More broadly their work offers us a new picture of secularization not as a process of religious decline but as the reinscription of religion as an ordinary feature of human life like art or politics or sex whose function could be debated

War at a Distance Mary A. Favret, 2009-10-19 What does it mean to live during wartime away from the battle zone What is it like for citizens to go about daily routines while their country sends soldiers to kill and be killed across the globe Timely and thought provoking War at a Distance considers how those left on the home front register wars and wartime in their everyday lives particularly when military conflict remains removed from immediate perception available only through media forms Looking back over two centuries Mary Favret locates the origins of modern wartime in the Napoleonic era and describes how global military operations affected the British populace as the nation's army and navy waged battles far from home for decades She reveals that the literature and art produced in Britain during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries obsessively cultivated means for feeling as much as understanding such wars and established forms still relevant today Favret examines wartime literature and art as varied as meditations on the Iliad the history of meteorology landscape painting in India and popular poetry in newspapers and periodicals she locates the embedded sense of war and dislocation in works ranging from Austen Coleridge and Wordsworth to Woolf Stevens and Sebald and she contemplates how literature provides the public with methods for responding to violent calamities happening elsewhere Bringing to light Romanticism's legacy in reflections on modern warfare this book shows that war's absent presence affects home in deep and irrevocable ways Nights Out

Judith Walkowitz, 2012-05-15 London's Soho district underwent a spectacular transformation between the late Victorian era and the end of the Second World War its old buildings and dark streets infamous for sex crime political disloyalty and ethnic diversity became a center of culinary and cultural tourism servicing patrons of nearby shops and theaters Indulgences for the privileged and the upwardly mobile edged a dangerous transgressive space imagined to be outside the nation Treating Soho as exceptional but also representative of London's urban transformation Judith Walkowitz shows how the area's foreignness and porousness were key to the explosion of culture and development of modernity in the first half of the twentieth century She draws on a vast and unusual range of sources to stitch together a rich patchwork quilt of vivid stories and unforgettable characters revealing how Soho became a showcase for a new cosmopolitan identity Reclaiming the Enlightenment

Stephen Eric Bronner, 2004 In 1947 Horkheimer and Adorno connected the Enlightenment with totalitarianism Since when the Left has drifted into the language and imagery of the European Counter Enlightenment the movement against 1776 and 1789 Bronner sets out to reclaim the heritage of progressive politics The Routledge Companion to Cinema and Politics

Yannis Tzioumakis, Claire Molloy, 2016-07-01 The Routledge Companion to Cinema and Politics brings together forty essays by leading film scholars and filmmakers in order to discuss the complex relationship between cinema and politics Organised into eight sections Approaches to Film and Politics Film Activism and Opposition Film Propaganda Ideology and the State The Politics of Mobility Political Hollywood Alternative and Independent Film and Politics The Politics of Cine geographies and The Politics of Documentary this collection covers a broad range of topics including third cinema cinema after 9 11 eco activism human rights independent Chinese documentary film festivals manifestoes film policies film as a response to the post 2008 financial crisis Soviet propaganda the impact of neoliberalism on cinema and many others It foregrounds the key debates concepts approaches and case studies that critique and explain the complex relationship between politics and cinema discussing films from around the world and including examples from film history as well as contemporary cinema It also explores the wider relationship between politics and entertainment examines cinema's response to political and social transformations and questions the extent to which filmmaking itself is a political act      Panoramas and Compilations in Nineteenth-Century Britain Helen Kingstone, 2023-01-06 This book shows how in nineteenth century Britain confronted with the newly industrialized and urbanized modern world writers artists journalists and impresarios tried to gain an overview of contemporary history They drew on two successive but competing conceptual models of overview the panorama and the compilation Both models claimed to offer a holistic picture of the present moment but took very different approaches This book shows that panoramas 360 views previously associated with the Romantic period and compilations big data projects previously associated with the Victorian fin de siècle are intertwined relevant across the entire century and often remediated making them crucial lenses through which to view a broad range of genre and forms It brings together interdisciplinary research materials belonging to different period silos to create new understandings of how nineteenth century audiences dealt with information overload It argues for a new politics of distance one that recognizes the value of immersing oneself in a situation event or phenomenon but which also does not chastise us for trying to see the big picture This book is essential reading for students and scholars of nineteenth century literature history visual culture and information studies      Imperfect Cosmopolis Georg Cavallar, 2011-04-15 In current debates the term cosmopolitanism often remains quite vague and leads to sweeping generalizations this book looks at the notion from a decidedly historical perspective trying to give depth and texture to the concept      Urban Realism and the Cosmopolitan Imagination in the Nineteenth Century Tanya Agathocleous, 2011 Traces the development of cosmopolitanism and the growing importance of the city in nineteenth century literature      Victorian Ethical Optics Natalie Prizel, 2024 Explores the way that characters and figures in Victorian literature and visual art encountered and observed the bodies of others particularly those bodies which were aberrant deformed and disabled      British Modernism and Chinoiserie Anne Witchard, 2015-03-01 This volume examines the ways in which an intellectual vogue for a mythic China was a constituent element of British modernism

Literature and the Politics of Post-Victorian Decadence Kristin Mahoney, 2015-06-09 In Literature and the Politics of Post-Victorian Decadence Kristin Mahoney argues that the early twentieth century was a period in which the specters of the fin de siècle exercised a remarkable draw on the modern cultural imagination and troubled emergent avant gardistes These authors and artists refused to assimilate to the aesthetic and political ethos of the era representing themselves instead as time travelers from the previous century for whom twentieth century modernity was both baffling and disappointing However they did not turn entirely from the modern moment but rather relied on decadent strategies to participate in conversations concerning the most highly vexed issues of the period including war the rise of the Labour Party the question of women's sexual freedom and changing conceptions of sexual and gender identities      The ^AOxford Handbook of Global Modernisms Mark Wollaeger, 2010-12-02 The Oxford Handbook of Global Modernisms expands the scope of modernism beyond its traditional focus on English and Irish literature to explore the contributions of artists from countries and regions

like the US Cuba Spain the Balkans China Japan India Vietnam and Nigeria

Sovereign Power and the Enlightenment Peter DeGabriele, 2015-07-16 Sovereign Power and the Enlightenment examines the role of the novelists and historians of the eighteenth century in developing a vision of political modernity that questions traditional narratives about the rise of liberalism and the decline of sovereign power. It provides a new way to link the literature and philosophy of the eighteenth century with the meditations on violence and sovereignty that have preoccupied much of the political philosophy of the first years of the twenty first century. Focusing on the novelists Daniel Defoe Samuel Richardson and Ann Radcliffe and on the historians David Hume and Edward Gibbon DeGabriele shows how these authors use the resources of their respective genres to expose the persistence of sovereign violence and to outline a type of political subject who could resist the violence more effectively than the individual beloved of modern liberalism.

Charles Dickens and the Properties of Fiction Ushashi Dasgupta, 2020 This book explores the significance of tenancy in Charles Dickens's fiction. Dickens's conception of domesticity was nuanced and through his works he describes the chaos and unexpected harmony to be found in rented spaces.

Racing the Street Robert J. Topinka, 2020-08-18 Racing the Street traces the history of how race was used as a technology for gathering assembling and networking the early cosmopolitan city. Drawing on an archive that ranges from engineering blueprints and parliamentary committee reports to sensationalistic pamphlets and periodical press accounts Robert J Topinka conducts an original genealogy of the nineteenth century London street demonstrating how race as a technology gathers sorts and assembles the teeming particularities of the street into a manageable network. This interdisciplinary study offers a novel approach to the intersections of race rhetoric media technology and urban government.

Modernism and the New Spain Gayle Rogers, 2012-10-18 Drawing on transnational literary studies periodical studies translation studies and comparative literary history Modernism and the New Spain illuminates why Spain has remained a problematic space on the scholarly map of international modernisms.
