Lewis,2023-07-03 Extracts from the text Why are fifteen million children and youth in poverty not achieving when we know that low income students excel in the classrooms of star teachers who comprise approximately 8 percent of the teaching force Whose needs or interests are being met in education reform today In my own institution there has not been a systematic assessment of the effectiveness of the basic teacher education program since the institution was founded over a century ago as a teachers college Imagine not one ever Teachers who empathize with students and the life challenges they face soon realize that the dysfunctional bureaucracies will not permit them to meet the needs of their students Half of the starry eyed beginners are gone in five years or less Why does teacher education focus on the managerial instrumental or delivery system aspects of the profession The expert advice dispensed by schools of education regarding what future teachers should do is not connected to any theory of learning or to any reality of life in school classrooms Why has the recruitment process resulted in a cohort of teachers who are unable to connect with their students Does a qualified teacher equate to a quality teacher The best hope of getting more effective teachers from university teacher preparation programs is to base their budgets on the number of their graduates who serve in challenging schools and their effectiveness with children and youth At the district level the salaries of hiring officials should be based on how well these officials identify and retain quality teachers In this book 12 distinguished scholars provide a hard hitting thoroughly researched historical and theoretical critique of our schools of education and offer clear recommendations on what must be done to ensure all children can achieve their potential and contribute to a vibrant democratic society Studying Teacher

Teacher Burnout in the Public Schools A. Gary Dworkin, 1987-01-01 This unique study is the first large scale sociological analysis of teacher burnout linking it with alienation commitment and turnover in the educational profession In the process of doing so Anthony Gary Dworkin uncovers some startling trends that challenge previous assumptions held by public school administrators Urban public school districts spend up to several million dollars annually on programs intended to rekindle enthusiasm among their teachers hoping thereby to reduce the turnover rates They also assume that enthusiastic teachers will heighten student achievement Yet data presented in Teacher Burnout in the Public Schools challenge these suppositions Dworkin's research shows teacher entrapment rather than teacher turnover as the greater problem in education today Teachers are now more likely to spend their entire working lifetime disliking their careers and sometimes their students rather than quitting their jobs and Dworkin proposes that principals more than any other school personnel can do much to break the functional linkage between school related stress and teacher burnout The author's findings also indicate that burned out teachers pose a minimal threat to the achievement of most children but that they do have an adverse impact on brighter students Teacher Burnout in the Public Schools includes an inventory of supported propositions and three levels of policy recommendations These important policy recommendations suggest substantial organizational changes in the nature of the training of public school teachers in the college educational curriculum in the teacher employment and deployment practices of school districts as well as in the administrative style of school principals
