The Sustainable Management of Tropical Catchments

A wide-angle photograph of a lush green tropical landscape. The foreground shows rolling hills covered in dense vegetation. In the middle ground, there are small, simple buildings and a dirt road. The background features a body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, under a clear blue sky.

Sustainable Management Of Tropical Catchments:

Sustainable Management of Tropical Catchments David Harper, Antony Gavin Brown, 1999-03-12 Provides syntheses of studies in three continents on the problem of achieving and understanding tropical rural development without compromising longer term sustainability of the soil and water systems that underpin it. The studies were carried out in Central South America, Africa and Asia during the 1990s mostly through the support of the EU Science and Technology for Development Programme. The studies encompass examples of erosion measurement of erosion control and conservation techniques at soil and ecosystem levels of the limits to uses of fragile tropical soils of the effects of runoff combined with regulation on rivers and reservoirs of the importance of indigenous people in the development processes and of the value and limitations of modelling at scales from soils to catchment. There is no single message from the book because there is no single solution to the problems of achieving sustainable tropical development. This book presents ideas, techniques and case studies, knowledge of which will help researchers in many scientific and social disciplines to understand the complexities better and politicians and bureaucrats to understand the consequences of development decisions and learn from the failure of many earlier ones. Sustainable water management in the tropics and subtropics - and case studies in Brazil. Vol. 4. , Criteria and Indicators for Sustainable Forest Management Robert John Raison, Alan Gordon Brown, David W. Flinn, 2001 There is increasing pressure on the forestry industry to adopt sustainable practices but a lack of knowledge about how to facilitate this and how to measure sustainability. This book reviews current thinking about scientifically based indicators and sustainable management of natural forests and plantations. Information is applicable to boreal temperate and tropical biomes. The contents have been developed from papers presented at a IUFRO conference held in Australia in order to develop a state of the art report on this subject. Restoration and Management of Tropical Eutrophic Lakes M V Reddy, 2005-01-09

This book is an essential knowledge base for both ecological restoration and management. Although tropical lakes are not identical and therefore require individually developed and restoration and management practices, there are general principles in both restoration and management that can be derived from the case histories in this book and the limnological literature in general. Guidelines for the Integrated Management of the Watershed Maciej Zalewski (writer on music), 2002

The world's water resources are becoming scarcer due to overexploitation and quality degradation and in order to stop this trend there is a need to develop proper water planning and management approaches. This publication considers the complementary use of ecohydrology and phytotechnology in the context of integrated water resource management in order to achieve and promote economic and social development without jeopardising the sustainability of the ecosystem.

Handbook of Catchment Management Robert C. Ferrier, Alan Jenkins, 2021-07-13 HANDBOOK OF CATCHMENT MANAGEMENT In 2010 the first edition of the Handbook of Catchment Management provided a benchmark on how our understanding and actions in water management within a catchment context had evolved in recent decades. Over ten years on the catchment management concept is entering a new phase of development aligned to contemporary and future challenges These include climate change uncertainty further understanding in ecological functioning under change the drive for a low carbon energy efficient and circular society multiple uses of water the emergence of new pollutants of concern new approaches to valuation finance and pricing mechanisms stewardship and community engagement the integration of water across the Sustainable Development Goals SDG and the link between water energy and food These developments are framed within an increasingly data rich world where new analytics sensor technology and processing power are informing increasingly real time decision making The challenge is also to increase cross compliance and policy integration to meet multiple stakeholder objectives and to link actions to achieve cost effective outcomes In addition there are a number of new and exciting city region and basin scale real world examples of contemporary and new catchment thinking integrating science technology knowledge and governance to address multiple drivers and complex problems from across the globe The time is now right to capture the new challenges facing catchment management and water resources management globally This revised and updated edition of the Handbook of Catchment Management features Thoroughly rewritten chapters which provide an up to date view of catchment management issues and contexts New case study material highlighting multi sectoral management in different globally significant basins and different geographical locations Up to date topics selected for their resonance not only in natural sciences and engineering but also in other fields such as socio economics law and policy The Handbook is designed for a broad audience but will be particularly useful for advanced students researchers academics and water sector professionals such as planners consultants and regulators

Water and Development - Volume II Catherine M .Marquette,2009-08-10 Water and Development is a component of Encyclopedia of Water Sciences Engineering and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias Water is perhaps the most critical natural resource upon which humans depend Agricultural and food production trade and ultimately the economic development of all regions of the world depend on rivers streams dams oceans and other water resources This critical relationship has persisted through the agricultural and industrial revolution and into the era of economic globalization The relationship between human activity and the water resources on which it depends also continues to be reciprocal Human consumption energy agricultural industrial and other economic activity have significant impacts on water quality and quantity for better or worse A key element of sustainable development rests on our global capacity to interact with the water resources on which we depend in ways that preserve them for our use and that of future generations The two volumes on the subject present some of the topics such as Water Agriculture and Food Interactions dams water valuation arid regions water management and Conflict over Water Resources Water and Sustainable Development They consider the implications which contributions have in each of these areas as well as introduce additional issues relating to the future of dams innovative ways of increasing water supply transboundary water resources and the implications of global climate change for water resources These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College students Educators Professional practitioners Research personnel and Policy analysts Managers and Decision makers and NGOs

Land, Water and Development Malcolm Newson, 2008-09-17

Water is newsworthy there is or will be a world water crisis Aggravated by climate change we are approaching the limits of human exploitation of freshwater resources notably in growing essential food The complexities and uncertainties associated with improving our management of fresh water take the potential remedies out of the hands of simple local hard engineering and into much larger units the basin the ecosystem and the global context and also require longer term perspectives The Third Edition follows the same structure as its predecessors presenting the historical and scientific backgrounds to land water interactions and establishing the links with development processes and policies Throughout its two major messages are that our new philosophy should be one of humans in the ecosystem and that the guidance from science being uncertain and contested must be operationalized in a participatory system of governance based on participation Following a review of progress towards these elements in the developed world the international case studies update the situation in the developing world following the Millennium Development Goals our new emphasis on poverty and on global food supplies This book covers the multitude of scientific research findings development of tools and spatial temporal scale challenges which have emerged in the last decade Tensions are highlighted in the current and future role of large dams country studies are retained and considerably updated and development contexts are explored in greater depth as a dividing line in capacity to cope with land and water stress Technical issues have been expanded to cover major droughts environmental flows and the restoration of rivers and wetlands A separate chapter picks up these themes under terms of their relationship with uncertainty and the widespread perception that a new ethos of adaptive management is needed in the water sector For students of geography environmental science hydrology and development studies this innovative edition provides a reasoned academic basis of evidence for sustainable adaptive management of rivers and related large scale ecosystems using more than 600 new sources It will also prove invaluable for lecturers and practitioners

Forests And Forest Plants - Volume III John N. Owens, H. Gyde Lund, 2009-02-24

Forests and Forest Plants is a component of Encyclopedia of Food and Agricultural Sciences Engineering and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias Forests are an essential part of Earth's life support systems Forest resources are essential for humankind They provide both vital goods and services They provide food fuel shelter soil and water protection and filter the air we breathe This publication on Forest and Forest Plants provides the user with such information as to create an awareness of the value of our forestlands and the products and environmental services they provide The three volumes on Forests and Forest Plants are organized starting with first the necessity of the World's Forest Resources including classification and distribution of forest urban forestry and agroforestry Important Tree Species including trees in reclamation and arid zone forestry Forests and Forest Products including wood and non wood products the Role of Forests in the Biosphere preserving biological diversity functions in the hydrological cycle etc and Conservation and Breeding of Forest Trees what is being done to improve our forest resources silviculture tree nurseries and forest protection The theme Forest and Forest Plants has led to the conclusion that there are substantial difficulties in matching environmental concerns and sustainability with an ever increasing world population Thus there is a tension between maximizing for food wood and production on the one hand and implementing sustainable development and environmental protection on the other These three volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers NGOs and GOs Integrating Agriculture, Conservation and Ecotourism: Societal Influences W. Bruce Campbell, Silvia López Ortíz, 2012-06-23 Agroecology not only encompasses aspects of ecology but the ecology of sustainable food production systems and related societal and cultural values To provide effective communication regarding status and advances in this field connections must be established with many disciplines such as sociology anthropology environmental sciences ethics agriculture economics ecology rural development sustainability policy and education or integrations of these general themes so as to provide integrated points of view that will help lead to a more sustainable construction of values than conventional economics alone Such designs are inherently complex and dynamic and go beyond the individual farm to include landscapes communities and biogeographic regions by emphasizing their unique agricultural and ecological values and their biological societal and cultural components and processes
