Kendall, Peter S. Wells, 1992 Anglo-Saxon History Simon Keynes, 1998 Reports of the Research Committee of the Society of Antiquaries of London, 2005 Sutton Hoo M. O. H. Carver, 2005 This book brings the excavations at the fabulous site of Sutton Hoo right up to date documenting the discoveries made since 1983 It also takes a fresh look at what was known prior to this and includes discussions by contributing experts Old English Newsletter, 1996 A Maritime Archaeology of Ships J. R. Adams, 2013-12-11 In the last fifty years the investigation of maritime archaeological sites in the sea in the coastal zone and in their interconnecting locales has emerged as one of archaeology's most dynamic and fast developing fields No longer a niche interest maritime archaeology is recognised as having central relevance in the integrated study of the human past Within maritime archaeology the study of watercraft has been understandably prominent and yet their potential is far from exhausted In this book Jon Adams evaluates key episodes of technical change in the ways that ships were conceived designed built used and disposed of As technological puzzles they have long confounded explanation but when viewed in the context of the societies in which they were created mysteries begin to dissolve Shipbuilding is social practice and as one of the most complex artefacts made changes in their technology provide a lens through which to view the ideologies strategies and agency of social change Adams argues that the harnessing of shipbuilding was one of the ways in which medieval society became modern and while the primary case studies are historical he also demonstrates that the relationships between ships and society have key implications for our understanding of prehistory in which seafaring and communication had similarly profound effects on the tide of human affairs
