Russell Hogg, Kerry Carrington

Sustainability And Change In Rural Australia:

Sustainability and Change in Rural Australia Chris Cocklin, Jacqui Dibden, 2005 By addressing themes such as social and economic change government policy and gender relations this volume tackles the thematic complexities of sustainability It attempts to understand how small rural communities have survived in the past what factors shaped them and how these factors will impact on their future survival

Social Work in Rural Australia Jane Maidment, 2020-07-22 Social work practice in a country town or small remote community several hours drive from the nearest centre is very different from practice in the city Social Work in Rural Australia offers an introduction to the challenges and rewards of professional practice in rural and remote areas The authors explore the practical implications for social workers in non urban regions including teamwork with professionals from other fields working with various sub groups in communities and across distance with other social work colleagues the diversity of rural livelihoods and lifestyles and increasingly pressing environmental issues Social work theories and case studies demonstrate how enabling practice can promote clients and communities ability to deal with some of the challenges of housing youth unemployment child protection ageing mental health disability and the obstacles faced by Indigenous migrant and refugee populations in specific geographical settings Social Work in Rural Australia encourages students and practitioners towards a holistic and contextual engagement with rural communities in current and newly developing fields of social work practice This accessible text integrates the theory and practice of social work in often overlooked rural and remote regions The case studies offer students and practitioners practical insights and celebrate rural practice as both unique and enriching Alana Johnson 2010 Victorian Winner RIRDC Rural Women s Award Family Therapist and Social Worker

Demographic Change in Australia's Rural Landscapes Gary W. Luck, Digby Race, Rosemary Black, 2010-11-30 The distribution and re distribution of people across the landscape has significant implications for ecological economic and social dynamics Movement of people to urban centres mostly from rural landscapes especially in the developing world is a major global phenomenon This can result in the depopulation of rural landscapes Conversely population growth and a changing demographic profile have been identified for particular rural landscapes with notable examples from North America Europe and Australia Yet we know little of the factors that drive demographic changes in rural landscapes and even less about the implications of these changes This book examines broad and local scale patterns of demographic change in rural landscapes identifies some of the drivers of these changes using Australian case studies or comparisons between Australian and international contexts and outlines the implications of changes for society and the environment This book makes a valuable contribution to the literature because it adopts an integrated and interdisciplinary approach by explicitly linking demographic change with environmental land use social and economic factors This integrated approach was achieved by encouraging interaction among authors writing on similar topics to ensure coherency and complementarity among chapters and cross pollination of ideas and perspectives Chapters are presented as interactive and re effective discussions that address the findings of other contributors yet each chapter contains enough background to stand alone as a unique contribution The Sustainability of Rural Systems I.R. Bowler, C.R. Bryant, C. Cocklin, 2013-06-29

Economy society and environment comprise the three main dimensions of sustainable development but too often they are considered separately This book by comparison examines the interaction of the three dimensions in the context of rural systems embracing a wide range of topics including globalisation and reregulation in sustainable food production conservation and sustainability the development of sustainable rural communities and sustainable rural urban interaction An international team of geographers drawn from the International Geographical Union's Commission on The Sustainability of Rural Systems summarises the basis of unsustainable rural development in these topics the remedial policies being pursued and their own evaluations of the policies Rather than deal just with generalisations their analyses are illustrated by detailed case studies drawn from a variety of rural systems in both developed and developing countries Regional Development in Australia Robyn Eversole, 2015-12-22 In Australia regions are not just geographic locations they are also cultural ideas Being regional means being located outside the nation's capital cities and in the periphery of its centres of power and influence Regional development in Australia is thus significantly different than its European or American counterparts However surprisingly little has been written about the unique dynamics of development in Australia's regions this book has been written to fill this gap In recent decades the Australian government has made repeated policy efforts to achieve sustainable development in its non metropolitan areas Over the same period those who live and work outside the nation's capital cities have come to identify as regional Australians This book takes an anthropological approach to understanding the particularities of regional development in Australia It draws upon rich on the ground observations of towns industries universities development organisations and communities across different settings to provide an in depth understanding of the subject This book will be of interest to researchers and practitioners concerned with regional development and policy

Contemporary Issues in Australian Urban and Regional Planning Julie Brunner, John Glasson, 2015-05-15

Contemporary Issues in Australian Urban and Regional Planning looks at a wide range of planning issues in Australia from the city to the regional scale covering key topics in sustainable development and planning including economic social environmental and governance perspectives It also covers issues of climate change population and urbanization trends economic competitiveness and the Quadruple Bottom Line QBL Sustainability agenda The book is organized around three key elements Pressures and Principles of development and planning for sustainability Planning Practice and Processes focused on essential topics including cities regions rural areas and social and environmental issues and Future Processes and Prospects for planning practice and education covering the fundamental issues of assessing sustainability managing risk effective participation and evolving approaches to planning education Contemporary Issues in Australian Urban and Regional Planning is an invaluable resource for students and practitioners of planning and related fields and provides a critical perspective on current issues in evolving natural and socio economic contexts in Australian planning

Women in Agriculture

Worldwide Amber Fletcher, Wendee Kubik, 2016-07-01 Over the past two decades existing documentation of women in the agricultural sector has surveyed topics such as agricultural restructuring and land reform international trade agreements and food trade land ownership and rural development and rural feminisms Many studies have focused on either the high income countries of the global North or the low income countries of the global South This separation suggests that the North has little to learn from the South or that there is little shared commonality across the global dividing line Fletcher and Kubik cross this political economic and ideological division by drawing together authors from 5 continents They discuss the situation for women in agriculture in 13 countries worldwide with two chapters that cover international contexts The authors blur the boundaries between academic and organizational authors and their contributors include university based researchers gender experts development consultants and staff of agricultural research centers and international organizations i e Oxfam the United Nations World Food Program The common thread connecting these diverse authors is an emphasis on practical and concrete solutions to address the challenges such as lack of access to resources and infrastructure lack of household decision making power and gender biases in policymaking and leadership still faced by women in agriculture around the world Ongoing issues in climate change will exacerbate many of these issues and several chapters also address environment and sustainability This book is of great interest to readers in the areas of gender studies agriculture policy studies environmental studies development and international studies

Policing the Rural Crisis Russell Hogg, Kerry Carrington, 2006 There is a growing sense of crisis in rural ways of life which manifests itself in economic decline depopulation depleted environments and a crisis of rural identities Crime is one potent marker of crisis the more so as it spoils the image of healthy cohesive community The social reaction it elicits the policing of this other rural is also a guide to the dimensions of crisis The social sciences have witnessed a renewed international interest in the study of other rurals the neglected invisible or excluded aspects of country life This book brings a fresh approach to the study of crime that challenges the urban centric assumptions of much western criminology and sociology It explores rural crime and social reactions to it in relation to processes and patterns of community formation and change in rural Australia including the social economic cultural and political forces shaping the history structure and everyday life of rural communities Policing the Rural Crisis is based on five years of extensive original empirical research in rural and regional Australia It draws on ideas and debates in contemporary social theory across several disciplines making the analysis relevant to the study of crime and social change elsewhere

Redesigning Animal Agriculture, 2007 Focusing on livestock production systems this text addresses how the diversity of global food demands will be met in future providing insights into scientific areas and the implications for addressing global drivers for change

The Rural Richard Munton, 2017-05-15 The rural has long been regarded as an important site of geographical inquiry even if our understanding of it has not always been treated as conceptually different from the urban That said rural research has pursued a number of distinct empirical agendas ranging from the operation and impacts of agribusiness to local resistance to global food supply chains to differing representations of the rural In doing so rural geographers have critically examined the relevance and significance of ideas drawn from numerous traditions including political economy ecological modernization and cultural theory amending them as appropriate in their search to understand the nature and trajectory of rural areas Up until the 1980s attention remained largely focused upon agriculture as the primary land use but increasingly new forms of rural consumption housing recreation nature conservation have taken centre stage as the primacy of local agricultures has been undermined by reduced state protection and new rural populations which have migrated out from the city More recently research has been dominated by the cultural turn with particular emphases upon society nature relations interpretations of landscape marginalised others and analyses of the relations between representation and practice In the last decade a more holistic view of the rural bringing together different aspects of the two previous themes has emerged through more politically oriented studies of rural governance concerned with the functioning of interest groups participation protest and the allocation and management of resources The volume is thus structured into three sections concerned with agriculture and food the rural and rural governance The great majority of the selected papers combine both empirical material often highly informative case studies and important conceptual arguments about change in the rural condition that can be linked to ideas being employed elsewhere in Geography and the Social Sciences more generally These critical reflections have been drawn very largely from research conducted in advanced economies which at least provide some commonality of experience allowing the transfer of ideas between what otherwise might be seen as very differing geographical contexts
