The Philosophy of Psychology George Botterill, Peter Carruthers, 1999-08-19 What is the relationship between common sense or folk psychology and contemporary scientific psychology Are they in conflict with one another Or do they perform quite different though perhaps complementary roles George Botterill and Peter Carruthers discuss these questions defending a robust form of realism about the commitments of folk psychology and about the prospects for integrating those commitments into natural science Their focus throughout the book is on the ways in which cognitive science presents a challenge to our common sense self image arguing that our native conception of the mind will be enriched but not overturned by science The Philosophy of Psychology is designed as a textbook for upper level undergraduate and beginning graduate students in philosophy and cognitive science but as a text that not only surveys but advances the debates on the topics discussed it will also be of interest to researchers working in these areas

Cognition, Content, and the A Priori Robert Hanna, 2015-10-08 In Cognition Content and the A Priori Robert Hanna works out a unified contemporary Kantian theory of rational human cognition and knowledge Along the way he provides accounts of i intentionality and its contents including non conceptual content and conceptual content ii sense perception and perceptual knowledge including perceptual self knowledge iii the analytic synthetic distinction iv the nature of logic and v a priori truth and knowledge in mathematics logic and philosophy This book is specifically intended to reach out to two very different audiences contemporary analytic philosophers of mind and knowledge on the one hand and contemporary Kantian philosophers or Kant scholars on the other At the same time it is also riding the crest of a wave of exciting and even revolutionary emerging new trends and new work in the philosophy of mind and epistemology with a special concentration on the philosophy of perception What is revolutionary in this new wave are its strong emphases on action on cognitive phenomenology on disjunctivist direct realism on embodiment and on sense perception as a primitive and proto rational capacity for cognizing the world Cognition Content and the A Priori makes a fundamental contribution to this philosophical revolution by giving it a specifically contemporary Kantian twist and by pushing these new lines of investigation radically further

Donald Davidson's Triangulation Argument Robert H. Myers, Claudine Verheggen, 2016-06-10 According to many commentators Davidson's earlier work on philosophy of action and truth theoretic semantics is the basis for his reputation and his later forays into broader metaphysical and epistemological issues and eventually into what became known as the triangulation argument are much less successful This book by two of his former students aims to change that perception In Part One Verheggen begins by providing an explanation and defense of the triangulation argument then explores its implications for questions concerning semantic normativity and reductionism the social character of language and thought and skepticism about the external world In Part Two Myers considers what the argument can tell us about reasons for action and whether it can overcome skeptical worries based on claims about the nature of motivation the sources of normativity and the demands of morality The book reveals Davidson's later writings to be full of innovative and important ideas that deserve much more attention than they are currently receiving

Meaning, Mind, and Knowledge Christopher S. Hill, 2014-03-06 In this collection of essays most of which are of recent vintage and seven of which appear here for the first time Christopher S Hill addresses a large assortment of philosophical issues Part I presents a deflationary theory of truth argues that semantic properties like reference and correspondence with fact can also be characterized in deflationary terms and offers an account of the value of these thin properties tracing it to their ability to track more substantial properties that are informational or epistemic in character Part II defends the view that conscious experiences are type identical with brain states It addresses a large array of objections to this identity thesis including objections based on the alleged multiple realizability of experiences and objections based on Cartesian intuitions about the modal separability of mind and matter In the end however it maintains that theories of experience based on type identity should give way to representationalist accounts Part III presents a representationalist solution to the mind body problem It argues that all awareness including awareness of qualia is governed by a Kantian appearance reality distinction a distinction between the ways objects and properties are represented as being and the ways they are in themselves It also presents theories of pain and visual qualia that kick them out of the mind and assign them to locations in body and the external world Part IV defends reliabilist theories of epistemic justification deploys such theories in answering Cartesian skepticism responds critically to Hawthorne's lottery problem and related proposals about the role of knowledge in conversation and practical reasoning presents a new account of the sources of modal knowledge and proposes an account of logical and mathematical beliefs that represents them as immune to empirical revision
