The Mojo Hands Call I Must Go:

The Mojo Hands Call, I Must Go, 1982 Conversations with Sterling Plump John Zheng, 2016-06-28

Conversations with Sterling Plump is the first collection of interviews with the renowned poet of Home Bass and other much admired works. Spanning thirty years and drawn from literary and scholarly journals and other media, these interviews offer insights into his poetic innovation of blues and jazz and his mastery of black vernacular in poetry. This collection seems fundamental to an understanding of the life and work of an African American poet who has been innovative in fusing blues and jazz rhythms with poetic insight and in vivifying the vernacular landscape of African American poetry. Born in 1940 in Clinton, Mississippi, Plump has been living in Chicago since 1962. Home Bass received the 2014 American Book Award. The finest blues poet of his generation, Plump became a model for contemporary poetry and poetics and a leading figure in the tradition of blues jazz poetry. He continues to reinvent the language while exploring the registers of individual and communal memory and of local, national and global history. His poetry is important in attempts to define the black aesthetic from the era of the Harlem Renaissance to the seminal Black Arts Movement. It is also important for its re-articulation of the Great Migration, especially expressed by blues musicians who left Mississippi for Chicago.

Poetry recounting the experience of growing up in the Deep South The Lever of Riches Joel Mokyr, 1992-04-09

In a world of supercomputers, genetic engineering and fiber optics, technological creativity is ever more the key to economic success. But why are some nations more creative than others and why do some highly innovative societies, such as ancient China or Britain in the industrial revolution, pass into stagnation? Beginning with a fascinating concise history of technological progress, Mokyr sets the background for his analysis by tracing the major inventions and innovations that have transformed society since ancient Greece and Rome. What emerges from this survey is often surprising: the classical world, for instance, was largely barren of new technology; the relatively backward society of medieval Europe bristled with inventions and the period between the Reformation and the Industrial Revolution was one of slow and unspectacular progress in technology despite the tumultuous developments associated with the Voyages of Discovery and the Scientific Revolution. What were the causes of technological creativity? Mokyr distinguishes between the relationship of inventors and their physical environment, which determined their willingness to challenge nature and the social environment, which determined the openness to new ideas. He discusses a long list of such factors, showing how they interact to help or hinder a nation's creativity and then illustrates them by a number of detailed comparative studies examining the differences between Europe and China, between classical antiquity and medieval Europe, and between Britain and the rest of Europe during the industrial revolution. He examines such aspects as the role of the state, the Chinese gave up a millennium-wide lead in shipping to the Europeans, for example, when an Emperor banned large ocean-going vessels; the impact of science as well as religion, politics and even nutrition. He questions the importance of such commonly cited factors as the spill over benefits of war the abundance of natural resources life expectancy and labor costs Today an ever greater number of industrial economies are competing in the global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential
