“Strangers” in a not-so-strange land: a response to Goddard and Jaeger

Terrance J. Taylor

Georgia State University, Atlanta, Georgia, USA, and

L. Thomas Winfree

New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, New Mexico, USA

Abstract

Purpose – Aims to responds to Goddard and Jaeger (Policing: An International Journal of Police Strategies & Management (PIJPSM), Vol. 28 No. 4) who offered a thorough critique of an article previously published in PIJPSM.

Design/methodology/approach – Welcoming the insights Goddard and Jaeger provide, attempts to address their expressed concerns and elaborate on the rationale behind the various definitions and methods. Additionally, seeks to expand the general discourse about policing in a comparative context.

Findings – Goddard and Jaeger raise concerns about several conceptual and methodological approaches used in the study. While the present authors do not agree with all of Goddard and Jaeger's critique, they do agree on one of the most important points: employing multiple methodologies whenever possible is essential to the advancement of any science.

Originality/value – Provides a response to a thorough critique of an article previously published in PIJPSM.

Paper type Viewpoint

In an earlier work (Winfree and Taylor, 2004), we utilized survey data to explore differences among certified-peace officers employed by the New Zealand Police (NZP) in diverse New Zealand locales. Human Synergistics, Inc., a subsidiary of Price Waterhouse Urwick, collected the data in 1996 under contract to the NZP. Their survey was part of a large-scale management and line-staff study of the NZP called “Policing 2000” (Winfree and Newbold, 1999). Included in the survey instrument were several large clusters of questions designed to elicit information about all of the surveyed personnel's backgrounds and attitudes, as well as characteristics related to job duties, training, and working environments.

These survey data gave us an opportunity to examine what we felt were intriguing and timely research questions, including the following:

- RQ1.* How different are the personnel working in rural, small-town and metropolitan units in terms of personal-biographical characteristics?
- RQ2.* How do NZP personnel working in rural, small-town, and metropolitan units differ on perceptions of supervisory fairness and support, job satisfaction, and other work-related dimensions?

Strangers In A Not So Strange Land

Scott Alan Roberts, John Richard Ward

Strangers In A Not So Strange Land:

Strangers in a Strange Lab William Ickes,2009-08-27 Can we predict how well or how poorly two strangers will get along According to social psychologist William Ickes the answer is yes Drawing upon relevant research findings from his 30 year career Ickes explains how initial interactions are shaped by gender race birth order physical attractiveness androgyny the Big Five dimensions shyness and self monitoring A Stanislaw Lem Reader Stanisław Lem,Peter Swirski,1997-11-12 In The Lem Reader Peter Swirski has assembled an in depth and insightful collection of writings by and about and interviews with one of the most fascinating writers of the twentieth century The Other Side of Assimilation Tomas Jimenez,2017-07-18 The not so strange strangers in their midst Salsa and ketchup cultural exposure and adoption Spotlight on white fade to black Living with difference and similarity Living locally thinking nationally The Exodus Reality Scott Alan Roberts,John Richard Ward,2013-10-21 An intriguing narrative A complementary blend of scripture ancient legends history and archaeology it will stir your curiosity Lorraine Evans Egyptologist and author of Burying the Dead In this groundbreaking work the authors reexamine humanity s most enduring account of bondage emancipation and freedom The Great Exodus is the story of how one man empowered by divine epiphany brought the mighty ancient kingdom of Egypt to its knees For thousands of years this story has bolstered the faithful of three major religions though little historical data confirms it So the question must be asked Did it ever really happen Roberts a historian and theologian and Ward an archaeologist Egyptologist and anthropologist dig deeply into historical records to answer the most vexing questions Is there any historical evidence for the biblical account of the Great Exodus Was Moses a real person Where is the Biblical Mount Sinai What is the Ark of the Covenant and where did it come from Why did Moses write about the Serpent and the Nephilim Is there a Templar and Masonic connection to the events and personages in the story Did the Exodus take place under Amenhotep II or Amenhotep III two pharaohs of the same royal house separated by two generations and eighty odd years Or were Thutmoses III Hatshepsut and Amenhotep Son of Hapu at the core of the action The authors present two opposing yet strangely interlaced historical accounts for the Exodus naming the historical pharaohs and surprising candidates for the historical Moses While Roberts presents an account that finds its moorings in the efficacy of scriptural historicity Ward presents a new and completely unique theory for the Exodus and its cast of characters The Jugglers Detected. A Discourse Delivered by Request in the Chapel Street Church, New Haven, December 30, 1860 Leonard Bacon (Pastor of the First Church in New Haven.),1861 The Christian Advocate ,1906 Christian Advocate and Journal and Zion's Herald ,1906 The Englishman's Greek Concordance of the New Testament George V. poetry art and novels we demonstrate that English has become the heteroglossic language of immigration Englishes of exile By appropriating its plural form we pay respect to all those who have been improving standard English thus proving that one may be born in a language as well as give birth to a language or add to it one's own version The story of the immigrant refugee exile expatriate is everybody's story and without migration we could not evolve our human race Journal of Discourses Brigham Young, 1857 Journal of Discourses, 1856 Hagar, Sarah, And Their Children Letty M. Russell, In different ways Judaism Christianity and Islam all trace their beginnings to Abraham His wives Hagar and Sarah though also pivotal in the story have received far less attention In this book however noted Jewish Christian and Muslim scholars focus on Hagar Sarah and their children from Ishmael and Isaac to their many descendants through the centuries Moving from ancient and medieval sources to contemporary appropriations of the Sarah and Hagar story the authors begin with an overview of the three religions from their scriptural beginnings to their contemporary questions They then explore how the story was developed after its canonization in rabbinic interpretations in the stories of Islam and in the teachings of the early church fathers They also present contemporary womanist and feminist perspectives Timely relevant and provocative this book provides an entree into interreligious discussion and understanding Presbyterian Banner, 1907 *Journal of discourses. Engaged Anthropology Stuart Kirsch, 2018-03-30 Does anthropology have more to offer than just its texts In this timely and remarkable book Stuart Kirsch shows how anthropology can and why it should become more engaged with the problems of the world Engaged Anthropology draws on the author's experiences working with indigenous peoples fighting for their environment land rights and political sovereignty Including both short interventions and collaborations spanning decades it recounts interactions with lawyers and courts nongovernmental organizations scientific experts and transnational corporations This unflinchingly honest account addresses the unexamined backstage of engaged anthropology Coming at a time when some question the viability of the discipline the message of this powerful and original work is especially welcome as it not only promotes a new way of doing anthropology but also compellingly articulates a new rationale for why anthropology matters
