Synthesis 34 The Realization Of The Self:

The Haunted Self Onno van der Hart, Ellert R. S. Nijenhuis, Kathy Steele, 2014-09-02 Life is an ongoing struggle for patients who have been chronically traumatized. They typically have a wide array of symptoms often classified under different combinations of comorbidity which can make assessment and treatment complicated and confusing for the therapist. Many patients have substantial problems with daily living and relationships including serious intrapsychic conflicts and maladaptive coping strategies. Their suffering essentially relates to a terrifying and painful past that haunts them. Even when survivors attempt to hide their distress beneath a facade of normality, a common strategy therapists often feel besieged by their many symptoms and serious pain. Small wonder that many survivors of chronic traumatization have seen several therapists with little if any gains and that quite a few have been labeled as untreatable or resistant. In this book three leading researchers and clinicians share what they have learned from treating and studying chronically traumatized individuals across more than 65 years of collective experience. Based on the theory of structural dissociation of the personality in combination with a Janetian psychology of action, the authors have developed a model of phase oriented treatment that focuses on the identification and treatment of structural dissociation and related maladaptive mental and behavioral actions. The foundation of this approach is to support patients in learning more effective mental and behavioral actions that will enable them to become more adaptive in life and to resolve their structural dissociation. This principle implies an overall therapeutic goal of raising the integrative capacity in order to cope with the demands of daily life and deal with the haunting remnants of the past with the unfinished business of traumatic memories. Of interest to clinicians, students of clinical psychology and psychiatry as well as to researchers, all those interested in adult survivors of chronic child abuse and neglect will find helpful insights and tools that may make the treatment more effective and efficient and more tolerable for the suffering patient.

Tending Inner Gardens Lesley I Shore, 2014-01-21 Tending Inner Gardens: The Healing Art of Feminist Psychotherapy transforms the theory and practice of psychotherapy, one that values both the feminine and masculine perspectives. Set within a naturalistic framework, this model utilizes nature's growing and healing processes. It proposes nature's seasonal cycles as a model for the psychotherapy process, and author Lesley Irene Shore introduces nature's seasonal cycle as a model for successful psychotherapy and demonstrates how to tune techniques to the rhythms of each season. Dr. Shore speaks with the voice of an experienced psychotherapist, sharing her struggles with therapeutic dilemmas and addressing issues common to every practitioner. She refuses to present simple solutions to the difficult process of helping people grow, yet offers new ways of thinking about this work. Readers will find this a healing book for themselves as well as for their clients. The book covers relationship issues as well as the use of language, hypnosis, dreams, and creativity. Specific areas readers learn about include language, teaches therapists to differentiate between questions that address conscious regions of the mind and ones which communicate with less conscious processes. Metaphor describes ways of working with

Confucian Liberalism Roy Tseng,2023-01-01 Does Confucianism conflict with liberalism Confucian Liberalism sheds new light on this long standing debate entwined with the discourse of Chinese modernity Focusing on the legacy of Mou Zongsan the book significantly recasts the moral character and political ideal of Confucianism accompanied by a Hegelian retreatment of the multiple facets of Western modernity and its core values such as individuality self realization democracy civilized society citizenship public good freedom and human rights The book offers a culturally sensitive way of reevaluating liberal language and forges a reconciliation between the two extremes of anti Confucian liberalism and anti liberal Confucianism The result Confucian liberalism is akin to civil liberalism in that it rests the form of liberal democracy on the content of Confucian democratic civility It is also comparable to perfectionist liberalism endorsing a nondominant concept of the common good surrounded by a set of Confucian governing
