All Bound Up Together Martha S. Plantation Goods Seth Rockman, 2024-11-29 A Pulitzer Prize finalist in History this eye opening rethinking of nineteenth century American history reveals the interdependence of the Northern industrial economy and Southern slave labor The industrializing North and the agricultural South that's how we have been taught to think about the United States in the early nineteenth century But in doing so we overlook the economic ties that held the nation together before the Civil War We miss slavery's long reach into small New England communities just as we fail to see the role of Northern manufacturing in shaping the terrain of human bondage in the South Using plantation goods the shirts hats hoes shovels shoes axes and whips made in the North for use in the South historian Seth Rockman locates the biggest stories in American history in the everyday objects that stitched together the lives and livelihoods of Americans white and Black male and female enslaved and free across an expanding nation By following the stories of material objects such as shoes made by Massachusetts farm women that found their way to the feet of a Mississippi slave Rockman reveals a national economy organized by slavery a slavery that outsourced the production of its supplies to the North and a North that outsourced its slavery to the South Melding business and labor history through powerful storytelling Plantation Goods brings northern industrialists southern slaveholders enslaved field hands and paid factory laborers into the same picture In one part of the country entrepreneurs envisioned fortunes to be made from planter s hoes and rural women spent their days weaving negro cloth and assembling slave brogans In another enslaved people actively consumed textiles and tools imported from the North to contest their bondage In between merchants marketers storekeepers and debt collectors laid claim to the profits of a thriving interregional trade Examining producers and consumers linked in economic and moral relationships across great geographic and political distances Plantation Goods explores how people in the nineteenth century thought about complicity with slavery while showing how slavery structured life nationwide and established a modern world of entrepreneurship and exploitation Rockman brings together lines of American history that have for too long been told separately as slavery and capitalism converge in something as deceptively ordinary as a humble pair of shoes

Empire of Sacrifice Jon Pahl, 2010-01-05 It is widely recognized that American culture is both exceptionally religious and exceptionally violent Americans participate in religious communities in high numbers yet American citizens also own guns at rates far beyond those of citizens in other industrialized nations Since 9 11 United States scholars have understandably discussed religious violence in terms of terrorist acts a focus that follows United States policy Yet according to Jon Pahl to identify religious violence only with terrorism fails to address the long history of American violence rooted in religion throughout the country s history In essence Americans have found ways to consider blessed some very brutal attitudes and behaviors both domestically and globally In Empire of Sacrifice Pahl explains how both of these distinctive features of American culture work together by exploring how constructions along the lines of age race and gender have operated to centralize cultural power across American civil or cultural religions in ways that don t always appear to be religious at all Pahl traces the development of these forms of systemic violence throughout American history using evidence from popular culture including movies such as Rebel without a Cause and Reefer Madness and works of literature such as The Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass and The Handmaid s Tale to illuminate historical events Throughout Pahl focuses an intense light on the complex and durable interactions between religion and violence in American history from Puritan Boston to George W Bush s Baghdad
