The Diary Of A Good Neighbour:

The Diary of a Good Neighbour Jane Somers,1983 The Diary of a Good Neighbour Doris May Lessing,1983-01-01 Women and Evil Nel Noddings,1991-05-08 Human beings love to fictionalize evil to terrorize each other with stories of defilement horror excruciating pain and divine retribution Beneath the surface of bewitchment and half sick amusement however lies the realization that evil is real and that people must find a way to face and overcome it What we require Carl Jung suggested is a morality of evil a carefully thought out plan by which to manage the evil in ourselves in others and in whatever deities we posit This book is not written from a Jungian perspective but it is nonetheless an attempt to describe a morality of evil One suspects that descriptions of evil and the so called problem of evil have been thoroughly suffused with male interests and conditioned by masculine experience This result could hardly have been avoided in a sexist culture and recognizing the truth of such a claim does not commit us to condemn every male philosopher and theologian who has written on the problem It suggests rather that we may get a clearer view of evil if we take a different standpoint The standpoint I take here will be that of women that is I will attempt to describe evil from the perspective of women s experience

Doris Lessing Margaret Moan Rowe,1994-10-03 Through close readings of Doris Lessing s novels from The Grass is Singing to The Fifth Child Margaret Moan Rowe maps many of the literary and cultural negotiations that make Doris Lessing both a maverick and a mainstream novelist Examining the pull of paternal and maternal biographical and literary identification in Lessing Rowe relates them to the tensions between the ordinary and the visionary in her fiction A Feast of Words Anna Shapiro,1996 Presents food scenes excerpted from twenty five classic novels and stories including Jane Austen s Emma and Herman Melville s Moby Dick and provides commentary and original recipes that complement the text

The Older Woman in Recent Fiction Zoe Brennan,2014-12-09 This critical study explores late twentieth century novels by women writers including Doris Lessing May Sarton and Barbara Pym that feature female protagonists over the age of sixty These novels discourses on aging contrast with those largely pejorative ones that dominate Western society They break the silence that normally surrounds the lives of the aged and this book investigates how older female protagonists are represented in relation to areas such as sexuality dependence and everyday life Beginning with an investigation of popular opinions about aging and a survey of hypotheses from disciplines including gerontology psychology and feminism the text reviews literary critical attitudes toward fictions of aging analyzes representations of physically dependent characters whose anger over their failing bodies is often eased by relationships with their female friends discusses how paradigms of female sexuality exclude the possibility of older women being sexually desirable examines characters that live a contented life finding a more polemical side to them than is noted in more conventional literary critiques and analyzes the aged sleuth in classical detective fiction Discourses of Ageing in Fiction and Feminism J. King,2012-11-13 This book explores the way older women are represented in society Through close readings of novels by major 20th century novelists compared with the more dominant representations of female ageing to be found in popular culture it suggests that they offer a feminist understanding of the invisible woman sometimes lacking in feminism itself The Diary John Evelyn, 1907 The Unresolvable Plot Elizabeth Dipple, 2019-10-01 Originally published in 1988 the last few decades had seen the appearance of some brilliant and complex new kinds of fiction The ambitious experiments of writers such as Greene Garcia M rquez Borges Nabakov Calvino Beckett Eco Spark Hoban Murdoch Bellow Ozick and Lessing among others had all proved the vitality of contemporary fiction in discovering exciting new forms and styles Yet because of the difficulty of many of the texts contemporary fiction as a genre had acquired an undeservedly unpopular reputation among students and other readers In a very real way the reader had become nervous rather than confident in the face of a literature that in fact is more aware of and generous to that reader than earlier and more apparently accessible literature ever managed to be And the new fiction s seeming remoteness from the reader is exaggerated in a sense by the critical academic response at the time which tended to obscure the texts themselves behind the many aesthetic and cultural theories which had sprung up in the study of fictionalizing or narrativity in general Elizabeth Dipple is anxious to dispel readers fears about these texts She has chosen an international list of major writers of the time and presents a detailed discussion of each Beginning each chapter with a brief explanation of the context in which each fictionist is to be examined she then concentrates on an analysis of key texts aiming always to look beyond jargon and theory back to the sources themselves Professor Dipple s purpose was to convey to the reader some of her own admiration and enthusiasm for contemporary fiction and to persuade him or her to take a fresh look at a group of writers who were producing what she felt would surely be seen by future generations as among the most sophisticated and accomplished fiction of our time Literature and Institutions of Welfare Jess Cotton, 2024-12-17 Perspectives on the ways in which welfarist ideology has underpinned the teaching reading and production of literature from the 1930s to the present The welfare state in Britain established a new level of access to literature as a public good alongside other national resources that were grounded in a principle of democratic egalitarianism the National Health Service secondary education promises of full employment and new housing structures This volume charts the impact of the founding of the welfare state on the teaching reading and production of literature and the legacy of this social democratic vision of literature from the 1930s to the present day it is especially concerned with the representational possibilities the social arrangements and political claims that welfare makes possible Individual contributions consider the ways in which the history of literature is related to the history of welfare and how it shaped the literary culture that emerged during these years and how literature has communicated the value and character of the welfare state moving like the literature they examine between a disenchantment with the institutions of welfare and an urgent need to articulate welfare s vision of social repair Amongst the particular authors discussed are Raymond Williams T S Eliot and Caryl Phillips as well as an evaluation of the publisher Virago s contribution to the women s movement
