Social Experience And Anthropological Knowledge:

Social Experience and Anthropological Knowledge Kirsten Hastrup, Peter Hervik, 2003-12-16 Anthropology poses an explicit challenge to standard notions of scientific knowledge. It claims to produce genuine insights into the workings of culture in general on the basis of individual social experience in the field. Social Experience and Anthropological Knowledge traces the process from the ethnographic experience to the analytical results showing how fieldwork enables the ethnographer to arrive at an understanding not only of culture and society but also of the processes by which cultures and societies are transformed. The contributors challenge the distinction between subjectivity and objectivity, redefine what we should mean by empirical, and demonstrate the complexity of present day epistemological problems through concrete examples. By demystifying subjectivity in the ethnographic process and re-emphasizing the vital position of fieldwork, they do much to renew confidence in the anthropological project of comprehending the world. The Knowledge Landscapes of Cyberspace David Hakken, 2004-03-01 How is knowledge produced and used in cyberspace? David Hakken, a key figure in the anthropology of science and technology studies, approaches the study of cyberculture through the venue of knowledge production, drawing on critical theory from anthropology, philosophy, and informatics, computer science, to examine how the character and social functions of knowledge change profoundly in computer-saturated environments. He looks at what informational technologies offer, how they are being employed, and how they are tied to various agendas and forms of power. Knowledge Landscapes will be essential for both social scientists and cultural studies scholars doing research on cyberculture. Rural Transformations and Development - China in Context Norman Long, Jingzhong Ye, Yihuan Wang, 2010-01-01 Rural Transformations and Development: China in Context is a thoughtful book in both senses: penetrating and packed with ideas. True to its title, it takes the reader through the main socio-economic and political changes of Chinese rural society. The book brings together a selected group of authoritative international experts on agricultural development with particular reference to China. It is a good read for everyone and an eminently recommendable text for professionals and students interested in issues of China's rural change. Peter Ho, University of Groningen, The Netherlands. This is an insightful and excellent theoretical and empirical collection about China's contemporary agrarian transformation, critically studied not in isolation from either the urban sector or the broader world but in relation to these. It is a must-read for academics and development policy practitioners who are interested in agrarian and development issues in China in particular and the world more generally. Saturnino M. Borras Jr., Saint Mary's University, Canada. Bringing together contributions by some of the leading Western scholars working on paths of rural transformation, with studies by their counterparts in China, this book examines the value of contemporary development theories for understanding the specificities of China's trajectory of change. It is a first-class contribution both to Modern China studies and to the renaissance of international research on agrarian change that is now going on. It deserves a wide readership. John Harriss, Simon Fraser University at Vancouver, Canada. Interesting comparative perspectives are coupled to extensive on the ground research in this exploration of the vast changes underway in China's villages. This book by 19 specialists pushes forward our knowledge of the circumstances and challenges faced by an eighth of humankind. Jonathan Unger, Australian National University. This unique book explores the varied perspectives on contemporary processes of rural transformation and policy intervention in China. The expert contributors combine a critical review of current theoretical viewpoints and global debates with a series of case studies that document the specificities of China's pathways to change. Central issues focus on the dynamics of state-peasant encounters, the diversification of labour and livelihoods, out-migration and the blurring of rural and urban scenarios, the significance of issues of value and capital and their gender implications, land ownership and sustainable resource management, struggles between administrative cadres and local actors, and the dilemmas of participatory development. Rural Transformations and Development: China in Context will prove a fascinating and stimulating read for academics and researchers in the areas of Asian studies, development and agriculture, and public policy.

Doing Sensory Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2009-08-05. In this important and groundbreaking book, Sarah Pink suggests rethinking the ethnographic process through reflexive attention to what she terms the sensoriality of the experience, practice and knowledge of both researchers and those who participate in their research. The book provides an accessible analysis of the theoretical, methodological and practical aspects of doing sensory ethnography, drawing on examples and case studies from the growing literature on sensory ethnographic studies and from the author's own work.

A Muslim Minority in Turkey Lejla Voloder, 2018-07-30. Although Turkey is a secular state, it is often characterised as a Muslim country. In her latest book, Lejla Voloder provides an engaging and revealing study of a Bosniak community in Turkey, one of the Muslim minorities actually recognised by the state in Turkey. Under what circumstances have they resettled to Turkey? How do they embrace Islam? How does one live as a Bosniak, a Turkish citizen, a mother, a father, a member of a household, and as one guided by Islam? The first book based on fieldwork to detail the lives of members of the Bosnian and Bosniak diaspora in Turkey. A Muslim Minority in Turkey makes a unique contribution to the study of Muslim minority groups in Turkey and the Middle East.

In its assessment of the current state of play of ethnographic practice in social anthropology, this volume explores the challenges that changing social forms and changing understandings of the field pose to contemporary ethnographic methods. These challenges include the implications of the remarkable impact social anthropology is having on neighboring disciplines such as history, sociology, cultural studies, human geography, and linguistics, as well as the potential costs of this success for the discipline. Constructing the Field Vered Amit,2003-12-16 Ethnographic fieldwork is traditionally seen as what distinguishes social and cultural anthropology from the other social sciences This collection responds to the intensifying scrutiny of fieldwork in recent years It challenges the idea of the necessity for the total immersion of the ethnographer in the field and for the clear separation of professional and personal areas of activity The very existence of the field as an entity separate from everyday life is questioned Fresh perspectives on contemporary fieldwork are provided by diverse case studies from across North America and Europe These contributions give a thorough appraisal of what fieldwork is and should be and an extra dimension is added through fascinating accounts of the personal experiences of anthropologists in the field

Ritual, Performance and Media are significant areas of study which are essential to anthropology and are often surprisingly overlooked. This book brings a more anthropological perspective to debates about media consumption, performativity and the characteristics of spectacle which have transformed cultural studies over the past decade. Women, Islamisms and the State A. Karam, 1997-12-08. The book provides theoretical insight and analysis of the power relations between women's activism, Islamist thought and praxis and the Egyptian state, 1970s to 1990s. Contemporary feminist debates among women's NGOs are examined and the different perceptions of gender roles among Islamist men and women are presented and contrasted. Three feminist streams are identified as both shaping and being shaped by the dynamics of interaction between political Islam and state regimes.

Structures and Architecture. A Viable Urban Perspective? Marie Frier Hvejsel, Paulo J.S. Cruz, 2022-07-08. Structures and Architecture: A Viable Urban Perspective contains the research papers and prototype submissions, 1448 pages presented at the Fifth International Conference on Structures and Architecture (ICSA2022) Aalborg, Denmark, 6-8 July 2022. The contributions on creative and scientific aspects in the conception and construction of structures as architecture and on the role of advanced digital, industrial and craft-based technologies in this matter represent a critical blend of scientific, technical and practical novelties in both fields. Hence, as part of the proceedings series Structures and Architecture, the volume adds to a continuous exploration and development of the synergetic potentials of the fields of Structures and Architecture. With each volume further challenging the conditions, problems and potentials related to the art practice and theory of teaching, researching, designing and building structures as vehicles towards a viable architecture of the urban environment. The volumes of the series appear once every three years in tandem with the conferences organized by the International Association of Structures and Architecture and are intended for a global readership of researchers, practitioners and students including architects, structural and construction engineers, builders and building consultants, constructors, material suppliers, planners, urban designers, anthropologists, economists, sociologists, artists, product manufacturers and other professionals involved in the design and realization of architectural, structural and infrastructural projects. An Anthropology of Indirect Communication Joy Hendry, C.W. Watson, 2003-12-16. Sometimes we convey what we mean not by what we say but by what we do. This type of indirect communication is sometimes called indirection. From patent miscommunication through potent ambiguity to pregnant silence, this incisive collection examines from a rare anthropological perspective the many aspects of indirect communication. From a Mormon Theme Park to carnival time on Montserrat, the contributors analyse indirection by illustrating how food, silence, sunglasses, martial arts and rudeness can constitute powerful ways of conveying meaning. An Anthropology of Indirect Communication is an engaging text which provides a challenging introduction to this subject.
