

From the STORY OF A MILLION YEARS

"The story of a million years filled my heart with great optimism — so many marvelous scenes, so perfectly balanced a story. How Huddle orchestrates such complex moments and powerful moments of young adulthood is hard to over-praise of his genius. It's such a splendid work — the novel rewards you in the most pleasing, fascinating and yet, perhaps, understated way."

— Howard Norman

"A beautifully orchestrated novel with a brilliant pace as it is clear that we are all largely unknowable to each other, full of secrets and surprises and yet as reader we have a privileged view into the heart of both darkness and light of Huddle's luminous characters."

— John Moore

"The story of a million years is a novel both heartbreaking and awe. These pages contain so many luminous moments for both will want to glow in a reader's hands."

— Larry Watson

"David Huddle is aware about the small concerns and moments comprising that form the scaffolding for narrative. He goes over responsible to put down, like a poet, finding different colors, truths, moments and moments not long enough to become inevitable and, only to persist in the world, never, I believe, the past and the whole fabric of thought, for are all always being in shaping something within the larger fabric."

— John Burt Foster

Stories in Stone David B. Williams, 2019-08-19 Most people do not think to observe geology from the sidewalks of a major city but all David B Williams has to do is look at building stone in any urban center to find a range of rocks equal to any assembled by plate tectonics In Stories in Stone he takes you on explorations to find 3.5 billion year old rock that looks like swirled pink and black taffy a gas station made of petrified wood and a Florida fort that has withstood three hundred years of attacks and hurricanes despite being made of a stone that has the consistency of a granola bar Williams also weaves in the cultural history of stone explaining why a white fossil rich limestone from Indiana became the only building stone used in all fifty states how in 1825 the construction of the Bunker Hill Monument led to America's first commercial railroad and why when the same kind of marble used by Michelangelo clad a Chicago skyscraper it warped so much after nineteen years that all 44 000 panels of it had to be replaced This love letter to building stone brings to life the geology you can see in the structures of every city

Inhabiting Contemporary Southern and Appalachian Literature Casey Clabough, 2012-08-26 The idea of place any place remains one of our most basic yet slippery concepts It is a space with boundaries whose limits may be definite or indefinite it can be a real location or an abstract mental spiritual or imaginary construction Casey Clabough's thorough examination of the importance of place in southern literature examines the works of a wide range of authors including Fred Chappell George Garrett William Hoffman Julien Green Kelly Cherry

David Huddle and James Dickey Clabough expands the definition of here beyond mere geography offering nuanced readings that examine tradition and nostalgia and explore the existential nature of place Deeply concerned with literature as a form of emotional intellectual and aesthetic engagement with the local and the regional Clabough considers the idea of place in a variety of ways as both a physical and metaphorical location as an important factor in shaping an individual informing one of the ways the person perceives the world and as a temporal as well as geographic construction This fresh and useful contribution to the scholarship on southern literature explains how a text can open up new worlds for readers if they pay close enough attention to place

Jesus the Wisdom of God Denis Edwards, 2005-01-12 Jesus the Wisdom of God brings together insights from wisdom literature and contemporary creation thought in a work that brilliantly illuminates an integrated ecological theology Adding new depth to the ethical demands of our global ecological situation Denis Edwards argues that commitment to ecological praxis springs from the very center of Christian identity in Jesus Trinity and humanity Beginning with the wisdom tradition of the Hebrew scriptures Jesus the Wisdom of God explores what it means to recover the notion that Sophia Wisdom became incarnate in Jesus of Nazareth and shows how the universe is altered by this Incarnation Wisdom Christology then opens out into a view of the trinitarian God at work in ongoing creation Edwards considers the implications of the trinitarian theology of Richard of St Victor and St Bonaventure centering on the insight that every creature including humankind is the free self expression of the trinitarian God In this context humanity is revealed as integrally related to all of creation a part of a single cosmic story While at one with creation in evolutionary history humanity is at the same time creation come to self awareness This train of insights leads to principles for an ecological praxis that affirms human value while insisting that humanity is a part of nature The whole reinforces commitment to sustainability and a Franciscan attitude of reverence toward God s creation Jesus the Wisdom of God in a disciplined yet clear way crafts an alternative to the anthropocentrism and alienation of much of Christian tradition by finding in the very roots of Christian mysticism and Christian identity a truly ecological theology for our time It is profound reading for students theologians and all Christians concerned with ecology and with the interface of science and theology
