Recollections The purpose of this book is to share some of the fun and interesting things that happened when I was growing up in Brown County The stories offered here were told to my five daughters around campfires and at many bedtime sessions as they were growing up They requested that I tell them over and over again They heard these stories and many others like them so many times they said they felt like they actually grew up with Cobweb and Virgil and Hazel and Sis and Bobby and Stretch After many retellings I was once obliged to let my youngest daughter know that I had told her everything I could remember or even make up To which she replied OK then just start over The various accounts of these uncommon experiences were reinforced for my daughters when they visited their grandmother who lived in Nashville the County Seat of Brown County and were able to explore the territory where they took place All of these stories are based on things that actually happened to me and other live people in the good old days in Brown County They are as true as creative memory will allow

Quarterly Bulletin of the Michigan State Library ,1918 Michigan Library Bulletin ,1920 The Literary World ,1899 Sociogenetic Perspectives on Internalization Brian D. Cox,Cynthia Lightfoot,2013-05-13 The issue of how the external world becomes part of the behavioral repertoire of children has been important to psychology from its very beginning preoccupying theorists from Sigmund Freud to George Herbert Mead But ever since Lev Vygotsky claimed that every function in a child s activity appears first as a process in the social realm between individuals and moves to a process that individual children can accomplish relatively independently there has been increased debate as to exactly how this process of internalization happens In contemporary developmental psychology the process of internalization has become so important that the time is ripe for a book which explicitly addresses the problems it poses Although the chapters in this book deal with age groups from preschool to adolescence and topics from mathematics to storytelling and from taking risks to making moral judgments there is one core question which unifies them all If the growing competence of a child is truly sociogenetic if it truly grows out from is supported by and is dependent upon the social where is that competence truly located Bearing a variety of labels cultural historical co constructionist dialectical contextualist narrative hermeneutic and discursive psychologies and analytic constructs scaffolding proleptic instruction participation appropriation and situated activity contemporary perspectives are showing clear signs of development and differentiation This volume s goal is to help bring some order to these differences without denying either the usefulness of this variety or the importance of the differences among perspectives This new book illuminates these differences by collecting a select sample of theory and research into one of two major sections The first section includes work undertaken from a social interactive perspective The overarching aim is to identify processes of child child or child adult interactions as they emerge over relatively short periods of time Typically the methodology involves the microanalysis of videotaped interactions Development is situated literally within social interactions which are considered directly responsible for children s development The second section provides a sample of work representing a symbolic action perspective This one is not oriented toward social interactions but toward the symbolic meanings that they express and that children impose on them The dominant methodology is interpretive or hermeneutic and the goal is to articulate the figurative metaphoric processes and narrative structures that inhabit social actions and from which they draw their meaning and coherence

Tobin, 2001-10-31 Among Marshallese the ribwebwenato storyteller is well known and respected a living repository and transmitter of traditional history and culture Here are ninety folktales and stories of historical events collected and translated into English during the third quarter of the twentieth century They include tales of origins humanlike animals ogres and sprites some malevolent some playful Many are presented in the original language and are amplified by extensive commentary Journal of the New York State Teachers' Association, 1914 Saturday Review of Literature, 1952-07 The Journal of the New York State Teachers' Association, 1914 Regendering the School Story Beverly Lyon Clark, 2004-08-02 In 18th through 20th century British and American literature school stories always play out the power relationships between adult and child They also play out gender relationships especially when females are excluded although most histories of the genre ignore the unusual novels that probe the gendering of school stories When the occasional man wrote about girls schools as Charles Lamb and H G Wells did he sometimes empowered his female characters granting them freedoms that he had experienced at school Women who wrote about boys schools often gave unusual emphasis to families and at times revealed the contradictions in the schoolyard code against telling tales or presented competing versions of masculinity such as the Christian gentleman versus the self made man Sometimes these middle class white women projected their sense of estrangement onto working class and minority women Sometimes they wrote school stories that were in dialog with other genres as when Mrs Henry Wood wrote a sensation story or like Louisa May Alcott they domesticated the boys school story giving prominence to a female viewpoint
