Strangers to Failure Benson Idahosa, 1993-12-01 Strangers in African Societies William A. Shack, Elliott P. Skinner, 1979-01-01 Strange Encounters Sara Ahmed, 2013-02-01 Examining the relationship between strangers embodiment and community Strange Encounters challenges the assumptions that the stranger is simply anybody we do not recognize and instead proposes that he or she is socially constructed as somebody we already know Using feminist and postcolonial theory this book examines the impact of multiculturalism and globalization on embodiment and community whilst considering the ethical and political implication of its critique for post colonial feminism A diverse range of texts are analyzed which produce the figure of the stranger showing that it has alternatively been expelled as the origin of danger such as in neighbourhood watch or celebrated as the origin of difference as in multiculturalism The author argues that both of these standpoints are problematic as they involve stranger fetishism they assume that the stranger has a life of its own concerns have grown out of a commitment to a Kantian utilitarian or prescriptive type of ethics and urges that there are valuable lessons to be learned from these theologians and philosophers At the same time it is argued that some of their concerns are the result of a mistaken idea of what it means to perform an act of supererogation In addition it is argued that some of their concerns can be addressed in ways that do not require a denial of the possibility of going beyond the call of duty in human life This stage of the argument involves a discussion of virtue ethics and an examination of the concept of vocation particularly as it has developed in Protestant thought and illustrates the relevance of virtue and vocation to the problem of supererogation
