The Demiparadise:

Millions Like Us'? Visiting Senior Fellow Department of Psychology Nicky Hayes, 1999-01-01 This collection of essays brings together the latest historical research on cultural production and reception during the Second World War It covers the way in which cultural provision was viewed by the labour movement and industry From the Battlefield to the Big Screen Melody Foreman, 2022-11-04 Look closely behind the lives of the stars who appeared in a host of legendary war films and discover how memories of their real life experiences in the armed forces were haunted with heartbreak and yet filled with extraordinary heroism Just what did America's most decorated soldier Audie Murphy go through in battle which led him to star as himself in the classic war film To Hell and Back When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor in December 1941 Murphy joined the US Army aged just 17 He went on to fight at Anzio the Colmar Pocket and Nuremberg And for single handedly holding off an enemy attack he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor But Murphy's military and celebrity stardom did little to extinguish the pain of his private battle to fit in to a new post war world he perceived as disappointing shallow and unfulfilling Tormented by PTSD Murphy was a man unable to escape from his past Only the great director and decorated wartime documentary maker John Huston gained Murphy's true respect When war broke out on 3 September 1939 a number of British stars including Laurence Olivier his future wife Vivien Leigh and David Niven were in the United States under contract to the Hollywood Studios Keen not to shirk their duties at home and against advice from the British Consul they made their way back to Blighty Olivier joined the Royal Navy's Fleet Air Arm as a pilot Then with Churchill's approval he directed and starred in powerful propaganda films including Shakespeare's Henry V In 1943 the beautiful Vivien Leigh ruined her health by enduring the brutalities of the North African climate to entertain the troops in the desert Meantime Dirk Bogarde was a British Army intelligence officer seconded to the pioneering RAF Medmenham where he studied aerial photographs and pinpointed enemy targets for Bomber Command As Lieutenant van den Bogaerde he was posted to France just after D Day He went on to star in many leading war films such as Appointment in London 1953 and King and Country 1964 Years later in 1991 Sir Dirk Bogarde was interviewed by the author of this book He had witnessed the horrors of Belsen in April 1945 and said it changed his attitude to life forever In this book the author honors the real life stories of some big screen idols who showed true grit behind the glamor Shakspeare's Werke William Shakespeare, 1864 This is England Neil Rattigan, 2001 Third that the condition of total war in which Britain found itself a short time after the commencement of hostilities would mean that films and indeed all mass popular culture would respond to the urgency of the situation by taking a special interest in representations of British society And fourth following on from this that British films of the Second World War would one way or another be agents of propaganda From these propositions the book examines just what these films had to say about social class in the images of Britain they were promulgating with the corollaries of just how were they saying it and why were they saying it Alongside this is a concern with what propaganda purposes were being met by these films Jacket

The Complete Films of Laurence Olivier Jerry Vermilye, 1992 Laurence Olivier portrayed characters that were as diverse as they were memorable From Hamlet to Heathcliff from a Nazi dentist in Marathon Man to a cunning mystery writer in Sleuth his roles made him one of the most highly acclaimed actors of all time This book celebrates his career including casts credits synopses and production notes from every movie in which he appeared Photographs illustrate the text with rare candid photos borrowed from Olivier collectors

British National Cinema Sarah Street, 2003-09-02 The first substantial overview of the British film industry with emphasis on its genres stars and socioeconomic context British National Cinema by Sarah Street is an important title in Routledge's new National Cinemas series British National Cinema synthesizes years of scholarship on British film while incorporating the author's fresh perspective and research Street divides the study of British cinema into four sections the relation between the film industry and government specific film genres movie stars and experimental cinema In addition this beautifully illustrated volume includes over thirty stills from every sphere of British cinema British National Cinema will be of great interest to film students and theorists as well as the general reader interested in the fascinating scope of British film

Nationalising Femininity Christine Gledhill, Gillian Swanson, 1996 What was the relation between gender and nation when the waiting woman was displaced by the mobile woman and homes were flattened by bombs What happened to notions of femininity sexual difference and class as women moved into the workplace and donned dungarees military uniforms and utility clothing

Re-Viewing British Cinema, 1900-1992 Wheeler W. Dixon, 1994-07-01 Re-Viewing British Cinema 1900-1992 is a collection of essays on British cinema history and practice It offers both the casual reader and the film scholar a different view of British filmmaking during the past century Arranged in chronological order the book explores those areas of British cinema that have not been fully examined in other works and also offers fresh interpretations of a number of classic films From the work of Frederic Villiers the pioneering British newsreel cameraman who at the turn of the century brought home images of battlefield carnage to essays on the British B film and the long forgotten Independent Frame method of film production to new readings of classics such as The Red Shoes Passport to Pimlico and Peeping Tom the authors offer a look behind the scenes of the British film industry and engage the reader in some of the most compelling interpretational and historical issues of recent film history and critical theory In addition the volume contains a number of interviews with such key directors as Stephen Frears Terence Davies Wendy Toye and Lindsay Anderson and also pays particular attention to the work of early twentieth century British feminist filmmakers whose films have often been ignored by conventional film theory and history It also offers new material on the British film noir the English horror film and the pioneering gay director Brian Desmond Hurst Taken as a whole this book presents an entirely new series of viewpoints on British film practice theory and reception and affords a fresh and vibrant view of the British film medium

The Gendered Score: Music in 1940s Melodrama and the Woman's Film Heather Laing, 2017-07-05 Heather Laing examines for the first time the issues of gender and emotion that underpin the classical style of film scoring but that have until now remained unquestioned and untheorized thus providing a benchmark for thinking on more recent and alternative styles of scoring. Many theorists have discussed this type of music in film as a signifier of emotion and the feminine a capacity in which it is frequently associated with female characters. The full effect of such an association on either female or male characterization however has not been examined. This book considers the effects of this association by progress through three stages: cultural historical precedents, the generic parameters of melodrama and the woman's film, and the narrativization of music in film through diegetic performance and the presence of musicians as characters. Case studies of specific films provide textual and musical analyses and the genres of melodrama and the woman's film have been chosen as representative not only of the epitome of the Hollywood scoring style but also of the narrative association of women, emotion and music. Laing leads to the conclusion that music functions as more than merely a signifier of emotion. Rather it takes a crucial role in both indicating and determining how emotion is actually understood as part of the construction of gender and its representation in film.

British Genres Marcia Landy, 2014-07-14 In this unprecedented survey of British cinema from the 1930s to the New Wave of the 1960s, Marcia Landy explores how cinematic representation and social history converge. Landy focuses on the genre film, a product of British mass culture often dismissed by critics as unrealistic, showing that in England such cinema subtly dramatized unresolved cultural conflicts and was in fact more popular than critics have claimed. Her discussion covers hundreds of works including historical films, films of empire, war films, melodrama, comedy, science fiction, horror, and social problem films, and reveals their relation to changing attitudes toward class, race, national identity, sexuality, and gender. Landy begins by describing the status and value of genre theory, then provides a history of British film production that illuminates the politics and personalities connected with the major studios. In vivid accounts of the films within each genre, she analyzes styles, codes, and conventions to show how the films negotiate history, fantasy, and lived experience. Throughout, Landy creates a dynamic sense of genre and of how the genres shape, not merely reflect, cultural conflicts. Originally published in 1991, The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905.
