The Dancing Column On Order In Architecture:

The Dancing Column Joseph Rykwert, 1998 Joseph Rykwert is one of the major architectural historians of this century THE DANCING COLUMN is his most controversial and challenging work to date A decade in preparation it is a deeply erudite clearly written and wide ranging deconstruction of the system of column and beam known as the orders of architecture Rykwert traces the analogy between columns and or buildings and the human body 315 illustrations On Surface and Place Peta Carlin, 2018-03-21 On Surface and Place is a rich and poetic exploration of surfaces which foregrounds their significance in our understanding and experience of place Adopting weaving as its overarching metaphor it departs from Gottfried Semper's discussion of correspondences between architecture and textiles and emerges from the reading of photographs a swatch of Harris Tweed and curtain wall facade juxtaposed In juxtaposing the fabric of the city with the weave of Harris Tweed the book charts an original course across a range of connected ideas and questions combining many different themes writers and disciplines It presents integrated and innovative rethinkings on a number of fundamental relationships including correlations between body and building word and image and between the rural and the metropolitan and the hand crafted and the mass reproduced In doing so it seeks to foreground the very interrelationship of surface and place as it makes a claim for the relational nature of the world in which we live The Urbanism of Metabolism Raffaele Pernice, 2022-03-16 This edited book explores and promotes reflection on how the lessons of Metabolism experience can inform current debate on city making and future practice in architectural design and urban planning More than sixty years after the Metabolist manifesto was published the author's original contributions highlight the persistent links between present and past that can help to re imagine new urban futures as well as the design of innovative intra urban relationships and spaces The essays are written by experienced scholars and renowned academics from Japan Australia Europe South Korea and the United States and expose Metabolism's special merits in promoting new urban models and evaluate the current legacy of its architectural projects and urban design lessons They offer a critical intellectual and up to date account of the Metabolism projects and ideas with regard to the current evolution of architectural and urbanism discourse in a global context The collection of cross disciplinary contributions in this volume will be of great interest to architects architectural and urban historians as well as academics scholars and students in built environment disciplines and Japanese cultural studies The SAGE Handbook of Architectural Theory C. Greig Crysler, Stephen Cairns, Hilde Heynen, 2012-01-20 Offers an intense scholarly experience in its comprehensiveness its variety of voices and its formal organization the editors took a risk experimented and have delivered a much needed resource that upends the status quo Architectural Histories journal of the European Architectural History Network Architectural theory interweaves interdisciplinary understandings with different practices intentions and ways of knowing This handbook provides a lucid and comprehensive introduction to this challenging and shifting terrain and will be of great interest to students academics and practitioners alike Professor Iain Borden UCL

Bartlett School of Architecture In this collection architectural theory expands outward to interact with adjacent discourses such as sustainability conservation spatial practices virtual technologies and more We have in The Handbook of Architectural Theory an example of the extreme generosity of architectural theory It is a volume that designers and scholars of many stripes will welcome K Michael Hays Eliot Noyes Professor of Architectural Theory Harvard University The SAGE Handbook of Architectural Theory documents and builds upon the most innovative developments in architectural theory over the last two decades Bringing into dialogue a range of geographically institutionally and historically competing positions it examines and explores parallel debates in related fields The book is divided into eight sections Power Difference Embodiment Aesthetics Pleasure Excess Nation World Spectacle History Memory Tradition Design Production Practice Science Technology Virtuality Nature Ecology Sustainability City Metropolis Territory Creating openings for future lines of inquiry and establishing the basis for new directions for education research and practice the book is organized around specific case studies to provide a critical interpretive and speculative enquiry into the relevant debates in architectural theory Paper Palaces Vaughan Hart, Peter Hicks, 1998-01-01 A collection of essays examining early editions of Vitruvius writings and all the major Renaissance architectural treatises by authors such as Alberti Di Giorgio Colonna Serlio and Palladio The authors look at the significance of the treaty in the Renaissance and trace its decline in the late 17th century Pieter Bruegel the Elder Todd M. Richardson, 2017-07-05 Pieter Bruegel the Elder Art Discourse in the Sixteenth Century Netherlands examines the later images by Bruegel in the context of two contemporary discourses art theoretical and convivial The first concerns the purely visual interactions between artists and artistic practices that unfold in pictures which often transgress the categorical boundaries modern scholars place on their work such as sacred and profane antique and modern and Italian and Northern In this context the images themselves those of Bruegel his contemporaries and predecessors make up the primary source material from which the author argues The second deals with the dialogue that occurred between viewers in front of pictures and the way in which pictorial strategies facilitated their visual experience and challenged their analytical capabilities In this regard the author expands his base of primary sources to include convivial texts dialogues and correspondences and texts by rhetoricians and Northern humanists addressing art theoretical issues Challenging the conventional wisdom that the artist eschewed Italianate influences this study demonstrates how Bruegel's later peasant paintings reveal a complicated artistic dialogue in which visual concepts and pictorial motifs from Italian and classical ideas are employed for a subject that was increasingly recognized in the sixteenth century as a specifically Northern phenomenon Similar to the Dutch rhetorician societies and French Pléiade poets who cultivated the vernacular language using classical Latin the function of this inter pictorial discourse the author argues was not simply to imitate international trends a common practice during the period but to use it to cultivate his own visual vernacular language Although the focus is primarily on Bruegel's later work the author's conclusions are applied to sketch a broader understanding of both the artist himself and the vibrant artistic dialogue

Reading Architectural History Dana Arnold, 2003-09-02 Architectural history is more than just the study of buildings. Architecture of the past and present remains an essential emblem of a distinctive social system and set of cultural values and as a result it has been the subject of study of a variety of disciplines. But what is architectural history and how should we read it? Reading Architectural History examines the historiographic and socio-cultural implications of the mapping of British architectural history with particular reference to eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain. Discursive essays consider a range of writings from biographical and social histories to visual surveys and guidebooks to examine the narrative structures of histories of architecture and their impact on perception and understanding of the architecture of the past. Alongside this each chapter cites canonical histories juxtaposed with a range of social and cultural theorists to reveal that these writings are richer than we have perhaps recognised and that architectural production in this period can be interrogated in the same way as that from more recent past and can be read in a variety of ways. The essays and texts combine to form an essential course reader for methods and critical approaches to architectural history and more generally as examples of the kind of evidence used in the formation of architectural histories while also offering a thematic introduction to architecture in Britain and its social and cultural meaning. Dance, Spectacle, and the Body Politick, 1250-1750

Jennifer Nevile, 2008-06-25 From the mid 13th to the mid 18th century the ability to dance was an important social skill for both men and women. Dance performances were an integral part of court ceremonies and festivals and in the 17th and 18th centuries of commercial theatrical productions. Whether at court or in the public theater, danced spectacles were multimedia events that required close collaboration among artists, musicians, designers, engineers, and architects as well as choreographers. In order to fully understand these practices it is necessary to move beyond a consideration of dance alone and to examine it in its social context. This original collection brings together the work of 12 scholars from the disciplines of dance and music history. Their work presents a picture of dance in society from the late medieval period to the middle of the 18th century and demonstrates how dance practices during this period participated in the intellectual, artistic, and political cultures of their day. "Architects, Angels, Activists and the City of Bath, 1765-1965" Cynthia Imogen

Hammond, 2017-07-05 A unique contribution to the architectural and social history of Bath. Architects, Angels, Activists and the City of Bath, 1765-1965 Engaging with Women's Spatial Interventions in Buildings and Landscape approaches the past with the methods of the architectural historian and the site-specific interventions of the contemporary artist. Looking beyond and behind Bath's strategic marshalling of its past, Cynthia Imogen Hammond presents the ways in which women across classes shaped the built environment and designed landscapes of one of England's most architecturally significant cities. This study argues that Bath's efforts to preserve itself as an idealized Georgian town reveal an aesthetics of exclusion. Jane Austen may be well known, but the role of historic women in the creation of this city has had minimal treatment within the city's collective public memory. This book is an intervention into this memory; the author uses site-specific works of public art as strategic counterparts to her historical readings Through them she aims to transform as well as critique the urban image of Bath At once a performative literature an extensively researched history and an alternative guide to the city Architects Angels Activists engages with current struggles over urban signification in Bath and beyond The Architecture of Jens Fredrick Larson Rod Miller, 2024-08-19 After serving with the Canadian Artillery and becoming an ace with the Royal Flying Corps American Jens Fredrick Larson settled into architecture At age 28 he began work at Dartmouth As his reputation grew he would go on to work with myriad clients and more than thirty five colleges and universities in America and elsewhere including Colby College Bucknell College Wake Forest University the City University of Paris the University of New Brunswick and the Institute for Advanced Study Princeton This text explores the history of Larson and his career with a look at his major projects and the challenges faced late in his career when a nascent Modernism denigrated and misunderstood the meaning and value of the Georgian style
