Hilton, 1969      The Decline of Serfdom in Late Medieval England Mark Bailey, 2014 An exciting fresh look at one of the most important questions of medieval scholarship the decline of serfdom and its implications Scholars from various disciplines have long debated why western Europe in general and England in particular led the transition from feudalism to capitalism The decline of serfdom between c 1300 and c 1500 in England is central to this Transition Debate because it transformed the lives of ordinary people and opened up the markets in land and labour Yet despite its historical importance there has been no major survey or reassessment of decline of serfdom for decades Consequently the debate over its causes and its legacy to early modern England remains unresolved This dazzling study provides an accessible and up to date survey of the decline of serfdom in England applying a new methodology for establishing both its chronology and causes to thousands of court rolls from 38 manors located across the south Midlands and East Anglia It presents a ground breaking reassessment challenging many of the traditional interpretations of the economy and society of late medieval England and indeed of the very nature of serfdom itself Mark Bailey is High Master of St Paul s School and Professor of Later Medieval History at the University of East Anglia He has published extensively on the economic and social history of England between c 1200 and c 1500 including Medieval Suffolk 2007      The Decline of Serfdom in Medieval England R.H.
