Social Dimensions of U.S. Trade Policies Alan Verne Deardorff, Robert Mitchell Stern, 2000-01-21 divTrade policy experts convene to explore the social ramifications of the United States international trade policy DIV

Corporate versus National Interest in US Trade Policy Richard L. Bernal, 2020-10-31 This book provides a history of the WTO US EU banana dispute through the lens of a major actor the US owned multinational firm Chiquita Brands International It documents and explains how Chiquita succeeded in having the Clinton administration pursue a trade policy of forcing the European Union to dismantle its preferential banana import regime for exports from the small English speaking Caribbean ESC countries The export of bananas was critically important to the social stability and economic viability of these countries and that was in the national security interest of the United States The experience indicates that succeeding in this goal was detrimental to U S national security interest in the Caribbean

Issues and Options for U.S.-Japan Trade Policies Robert Mitchell Stern, 2002 Addresses the central negotiating issues involving the trade policies and relations between the United States and Japan

Intellectual Property Thomas Cottier, Petros Constantinou Mavroidis, Marion Panizzon, 2010-04-23 The incorporation of intellectual property protection into the WTO international trading system has been a milestone in international economic law and has added a new dimension to trade regulation new rights and obligations and new challenges alike The contributors leading scholars and practitioners in the field provide insights into the legal relationship of the TRIPs Agreement to the GATT 94 and the GATS The book widens the debate with a thorough discussion on pending and unresolved relations of TRIPs the WTO UPOV the Convention on Biodiversity and Farmers Rights contained in the FAO International Undertaking and efforts of the World Bank GCIAR system including IPGRI What will be the impact of TRIPs on ownership of plant genetic resources Largely a victory for OECD countries the present state of intellectual property rights has important implications for developing countries The incorporation of intellectual property rights into the WTO system will eventually change the relationship of trade competition and intellectual property. It will equally have to assist in providing equitable sharing of benefits in the use of plant genetic resources. All of these issues are essential for the revision of exclusions from patenting in TRIPs. This volume offers insights into how this difficult task could and should be approached in a balanced manner and will be essential reading for economists and trade and intellectual property lawyers interested in the subject. Moreover, the volume will be relevant to agricultural economists as it addresses complex problems in the interstices of trade, intellectual property, plant genetic resources and sustainable development. Thomas Cottier is Professor of European and International Economic Law, University of Bern and Managing Director, World Trade Institute, University of Bern. Petros C. Mavroidis is Professor of Law, University of Neuchâtel. He formerly worked in the Legal Affairs Division of the World Trade Organization. Marion Panizzon is Research Fellow, University of Bern. Simon Lacey is Research Fellow, University of Bern.

Reluctant Partners Andrew Gardner Brown, 2009-12-21 Examines how and why nations have succeeded in forming cooperative trade arrangements.

Quantifying the Impact of Technical Barriers to Trade Keith E. Maskus, John Wilson, 2005-10-01 This book provides an up to date discussion of economic issues involved in analyzing regulations of product quality and performance in international trade. Among the issues addressed in this collection are restrictions on genetically modified foods and pesticide use and compatibility standards for computers. While such regulations may serve important goals, they may also interfere with international trade flow by raising the costs of compliance. This is of special concern to developing countries which have found it difficult to meet the increasingly exacting regulations imposed by the United States and Europe. Keith E. Maskus and John S. Wilson gather prominent international trade specialists to ask whether the impacts of such regulations may be quantified systematically in order to inform the international policy debate. The essays included here cover all fronts of the debate over regulatory issues and trade conflicts. The discussion ranges from a review of how trade conflicts emerge and how they are managed by the international trading system to a technical analysis of the potential impact of European restraints on trade in genetically modified products to an examination of methods for estimating the costs of compliance with environmental regulations. Considerable attention is paid to whether the emergence and enforcement of stronger standards among developed economies could result in diminished trade opportunities for developing countries. At the same time, the possibility that standards could expand market access through resolving consumer information problems is analyzed. This book will appeal to international economists, international relations specialists and individuals concerned about appropriate regulation of safety and health issues in the global economy. Keith E. Maskus is Professor of Economics, University of Colorado Boulder. John S. Wilson is Lead Economist, Development Economics Research Group, The World Bank.

International Trade Luis Rivera-Batiz, Maria-Angels Oliva, 2003 This title offers an integrated account of strategic trade analysis combined with empirical evidence and new results. It addresses the need to synthesize and integrate the new advances in a field that has become a key element of policy discussions      International Labor Standards Robert J. Flanagan, William B. Gould, 2003

This book provides the most thorough empirical assessment to date of the impact of international regulation on labor standards and conditions and critically analyzes the common race to the bottom view that globalization and international competition can only further degrade labor standards      Regulatory Barriers and the Principle of Non-discrimination in World Trade Law Thomas Cottier, Petros Constantinos Mavroidis, Patrick Blatter, 2010-05-18 The University of Michigan Press
